WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

Obsequies of the Great Secretary of State.

Spontaneous Tribute of the Whole People to His Memory.

Auburn Completes Her Mourning Drapery in a Drenching Rain.

Ten Thousand Persons Look Upon the Statesman's Face.

Impressive Scenes at the Grave in Fort Hill Cemetery.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 14.—It was well that no glittering pageant nor long parade had been contemplated as attendant to the funeral of William H. Seward, for from midnight on Sunday the rain poured continuously, flooding the streets and sidewalks, and rendering portions of the town well-nigh impassable. But Auburn had contemplated only the outpouring of a sorrowing people, and, in spite of storm and rain, every intention was carried out, and the casket was borne to its last resting-place in a manner befitting the close of the great man's life. The paying of the last tribute was not left to Auburn alone, however, for many of Mr. Seward's eminent fellow-countrymen looked on his face in death, and stood beside his grave. As soon as it became known that he was dead, the influx of strangers began. This morning's trains brought in many more, while from the surrounding cities, the arrivals have been hourly. Among others are many of his old friends and associates, such as James W. Freeborn, Alex. Harvey, Thurlow Weed, David Nellinger, Robert H. Pruyn, Rennselaer Van Valkenburgh, Thomas Murphy, Gen. Wood, Christopher Morgan, Ex-Gov. Morgan, Hon. Edward B. Morgan, of Aurora; James. J. Wood, Ex-Govs. Patterson and Clark, and S. B. Ruggles. Among other visitors, too, are Hamilton Fish, Jr., and Theo. W. Dimon, representing the State Department. Syracuse is represented by a committee of forty. Gen. J. C. Caldwell, of Maine, was also present at the funeral.

Today the President sent the following dispatch to Mr. Seward's family: "I condole with you and the nation on the loss of a kind father and an eminent statesman. His services form a part of our history. I regret that I cannot attend the funeral and participate in the last earthly honors to the great patriot and statesman." To this Mr. Seward's son replied in acknowledgment. Gen. Dix and Hon. Roscoe Conkling and Thomas A. Scott also sent similar communications to the family.

THE CITY IN MOURNING.

The rainy weather added to the general depression, but the citizens finished all the uncompleted drapings, and by noon the city was hung in black from end to end. Over South-street, at its junction with Genesee, funeral arches had been raised, trimmed with black and half concealed by evergreen boughs. Along the route of the procession were many chaste devices, monograms of Fall leaves being frequent, while often the American flag intertwined with black was seen wrapped around the white pillars of a piazza, and crape hung from every door. All the movable political flags had been taken in, and those remaining were heavily bordered with black and showed well-chosen sentiments. On the flag of the Republican County Committee were the words, "Seward, the national benefactor and friend and neighbor. Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thy work is ended."

REMAINS OF THE STATESMAN.

At 9 o'clock the Seward house was thrown open, and from then until 1 o'clock the people flocked in thousands to see the body. As the morning advanced thousands came in from the surrounding country and added to the ever-increasing throng. On the upper side of South-street, where the mansion is situated, the crowd pressed and elbowed each other, moving slowly on toward the main gate. The drizzle came down faster and thicker, but the crowd walked patiently up the graveled walk leading to the door, where three policemen stood to keep order, but their presence was unnecessary, for the crowd entered quietly, looked reverentially, and as quietly went their way. The visitors walked two abreast through the main hall to the south drawing-room, where the casket lay, and left by the south piazza. The body lay in a handsome rose-wood casket, with fixed silver handles, and was thickly lined with white satin. On a table at the head was a floral crown of tube-roses, and an anchor, cross and a wreath were placed on a table at the left side, while a cross and wreath of white and green stood on the lower portion of the casket. A space of two feet in the top of the casket had been fitted with glass, through which the visitors looked down on the face. A small oval silver plate in the centre bore his name and age. The body was wrapped in a robe of white merino, and a white stock and tie encircled the neck. The face was slightly fuller than in life, and a pallid hue had settled on it, but the expression was calm and peaceful.

Several of the floral offerings were brought from New-York, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schell and Thurlow Weed and daughter contributing. Miss Weed presented a flower of the "Holy Ghost," beneath the petals of which is the image of a white dove. This, clasped in a silver vial, was fastened to the lappel of the robe at the foot of the coffin, and was crossed with two palm-leaves, which Mr. Seward had brought from the Holy Land.

THE FUNERAL CEREMONY.

At 1 o'clock, when about 10,000 had passed through, and many were still waiting, the doors were closed, only the pall-bearers and officiating clergyman remaining within, and Rev. Dr. Brainard, of St. Peter's, Mr. Seward's place of worship, read selections from the Common Prayer Book.

At 2½ the casket was lifted in the hands of six faithful family servants and carried to the hearse, which then moved down South-street on the way to the church, followed by the carriage containing the relatives in the following order: In the first carriage, F. W. Seward and wife and W. H. Seward, Jr., wife and two children; in the second carriage, Geo. L. Seward, Mrs. Worden, and Miss Risley Seward; in the third carriage, Clarence and wife and the Misses Seward; in the fourth carriage, Rev. Augustus Seward and son and Geo. F. Seward and wife; in the fifth carriage, the children of W. H. Seward, Jr., and Mr. Gutman, Mr. Seward's former private Secretary. Six carriages followed with the relatives of the family, Rev. Dr. Brainard, and the family physician.

At 2¾ P. M. the procession reached the church, and at the door the casket was met by Rev. Messrs. Holt, Doty, Potter and Reid, and Dr. Brainard, leading the way to the aisle, repeated the opening words of the Episcopal service. The casket was carried by the servants, three white and three colored, and following came the pall-bearers, eighteen in number, Mr. Weed not coming to church. An immense crowd entered the church, although admission was restricted by tickets, and in the front pews were seventeen clergymen of various denominations, coming from Syracuse, Rochester and Auburn. Mr. Seward's pew, at the north-west corner, was draped in black broad-cloth and unoccupied, while the altar rails and reading-desk were covered with the same material, looped up with miniature wheat-sheaves.

The rest of the service was conducted by Revs. Messrs. Brainard, Potter, Doty and Reid, the choir chanting the De Profundis and singing the one hundred and eighty-seventh hymn—"I would not live alway," &c. At the conclusion the people moved up the aisle to look again at the face of the great statesman, for nearly an hour.

At 4¼ P. M., the casket was returned to the hearse and the procession formed and moved in the following order: Family physicians; the officiating clergy; pall-bearers; hearse, drawn by two horses; the City clergy; the Mayor and fourteen Councillors; the Board of Education; the Forty-ninth Regiment, in citizens' clothes and 400 strong; strangers, civic officials, mustering about 700, and a long procession of citizens, marching irregularly, about forty carriages and 5,000 persons being in the line. Along Fort-street, at the junction with Genesee-street, immense canvas strips were extended upon both sides of the way, with inscriptions: "Honored while living, reverenced in death," and "Wm. H. Seward, friend of the oppressed."

The wind blew drearily among the trees of the cemetery, strewing the Fall leaves on the monuments and paths, as near 5 P. M. the hearse passed beneath the draped north gate and ascended the hill, passing by the Old Logan monument and descending the valley, thence by a circuit, reaching the grave which had been made in the hollow at the south-west section, where crowds had preceded the procession and surrounded the lot. The hearse halted twenty feet from it, and the coffin was borne up the incline still by the old dependents and preceded by the four clergy led by Dr. Brainard. The pall-bearers and family followed and entered the inclosure, all around uncovering their heads, as Dr. Brainard recited the closing words of the service.

The grave had been paved at the bottom and bricked on each side for three feet, and the coffin was inclosed in a large deal case and lowered into the chasm. Two large slates were then put down and cemented. Gen. Seward, who stood nearest, threw a clod into the grave, and at this signal the workmen began their task. In a few minutes the level was reached and a simple mound was heaped up. Then slowly and sadly the assemblage moved away down leaf-strewn paths leading to the city.

The rain recommenced, and darkness quickly came, gloomily closing the mournful scene.

ADDITIONAL LETTERS OF CONDOLENCE.

The following telegram from the President to Gen. W. H. Seward, was received today:

I condole with you and the nation in the loss of a kind father and an eminent statesman. His services to the country have become a part of its history. I regret that I cannot attend the funeral today and participate in the last earthly honors to the remains of the distinguished patriot statesman. (Signed,) U. S. GRANT.

The following answer was sent to President Grant's telegram:

To the President of the United States, Washington, D. C.:

SIR: We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of this date, and in behalf of all the members of the family of our father we return you our heartfelt and sincere thanks for your expression of sympathy with them in this great affliction.

(Signed,) F. W. SEWARD,
W. H. SEWARD, JR.

The following additional telegrams have been received:

NEW-YORK, Oct. 14.

To Gen. Seward:

I have just come to town. Accept my heartfelt sympathy in your bereavement, and my regret that I am unable to be present at the funeral of your illustrious father.

(Signed,) JOHN A. DIX.

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 14.

Frederick W. Seward:

Please accept my earnest sympathy and my deep regret that a public engagement from which I cannot get released prevents my following the bier of your honored father.

(Signed,) ROSCOE CONKLING.

Tributes of Respect by the Citizens of New-York.

In the City, by the display of flags at half-mast, a stranger would have known that some great one of the nation had departed. Along the East and North Rivers, the crafts of different nationalities vied with each other in exhibiting the usual insignia of mourning. At Castle Garden, over the various steam-ship offices, the Exchange Building, Stock Exchange, Equitable and Mutual Insurance offices, and other edifices along Broadway and up town, the same tribute of respect was paid to the memory of the departed statesman. All the public buildings, the Sub-Treasury, Custom-house, City Hall, &c., carried the signs of sorrow on their flag-staff. The Municipal bodies suspended their business for the day. The Board of Aldermen passed resolutions expressive of sorrow at the demise of the eminent statesman. The Board of Assistant Aldermen did likewise, one of its members justly remarking that, like Prof. Morse, Mr. Seward lived to carry out his great idea, and his was the higher law, that humanity should not hold humanity in bondage. The President of the Board also observing that all generations of humanity would be benefited by the work Mr. Seward accomplished. The Common Council adjourned without transacting any business. The Custom-House was only opened from nine to ten o'clock A. M., for the clearance of vessels. The following notice, signed by Collector Arthur, was posted at the entrance:

"In token of national respect to the late Secretary of State of the United States, Wm. H. Seward, deceased, this office will be closed on the 14th inst., the day on which his obsequies will be solemnized."

The Sub-Treasury was not closed, it being found absolutely necessary to accommodate merchants and bankers who were compelled to finish business transactions on that day. In Wall-street and down town the marks of respect to Mr. Seward's memory were very general among the merchants and brokers. Flags floated half-mast, and the merits of the deceased, and the services which he rendered his country during our eventful busy life, were the prevailing topics of conversation. The various political organizations that met last evening passed resolutions expressing their sorrow at the loss which the nation has sustained in the death of Mr. Seward. The citizens of Scandinavian nationalities, at their meeting last evening, listened to a high eulogium paid to the memory of the great statesman by Hon Wm. Northrop. In the Thirteenth Assembly District Republican Association Col. Edwin De Forest introduced a series of resolutions as follows:

Resolved, That we mourn his loss to the nation and all mankind. Unwavering in purpose, fertile in device, loving his fellows with a universality which no clime or color founded, he brought to the consecration of the sacred cause he espoused the essential elements of character destined with the efforts and prayers of others, to ultimately win it permanent and abiding success.

That we may say of him as he so tenderly said of O'Connell, "It is a holy sight to see the obsequies of a soldier not less of civil liberty, but of the liberty of conscience; of a soldier not only of freedom, but of the cross of Christ; of a benefactor not merely of a race of people, but of mankind. The vault lighted by suspended worlds is the temple within which the great solemnities are celebrated; the nations of the earth are mourners, and the spirits made perfect, descending from their golden thrones on high, break forth into songs."

That he has set an example to all rulers to unselfishly pursue the never-varying line of duty, teaching them by the results of his successful life that "the man whose name was a scoffing with the fathers, the children so half round the globe for marble white enough to carve his memory on."

That for all time to come patriotic Americans will fondly entertain his name with grateful remembrance of his glorious services, justly claiming it is a part of our common inheritance. No human events can affect the grandeur of his life. Its full round and completeness no age can chill, nor rival steal, nor falsehood disavow.

The Sixteenth Assembly District Republican Association, and other organizations, passed resolutions of a like import.

In Brooklyn, Mayor Powell submitted to the Board of Aldermen the following communication:

BROOKLYN, Oct. 14, 1872.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

Another name has been added to the long line of great statesmen and pure patriots whom the country have loved and lost. Wm. H. Seward, whose name has been closely identified with the political history of the country during the past twenty-five years, and whose wisdom and sagacity has extended his fame among all the nations of civilized men, has passed to his reward.

The country owes him a great debt of gratitude for his invaluable services in the councils of the nation, and to him more than all others are we indebted for saving us from foreign complication during our great civil war. His patience and wisdom have challenged the respect of all men, and his untiring industry has produced great results for his country and mankind. And it, therefore, behooves us to join with our fellow-citizens throughout the country in giving expression to the sorrow that fills all hearts at the great loss sustained by the world in the death of the departed statesman. Respectfully submitted,

(Signed,) S. S. POWELL, Mayor.

The Board of Aldermen passed resolutions expressive of regret on the death of Mr. Seward, designating that event as a national calamity. The public buildings throughout the city had their flags half-mast high.

Honor to the Memory of Mr. Seward Elsewhere.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 14.—The bells of the city were tolled this afternoon and the flags displayed at half-mast, in respect to the memory of Mr. Seward.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 14.—The flags on the Government buildings here were placed at half-mast today, and the Custom-house was closed at 12 M. in respect to the memory of Ex-Secretary Seward.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Mourning for the Dead Secretary—Another Democratic Slander Contradicted—The Prospect in Missouri—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The Government buildings are draped in mourning for Mr. Seward, some of the draping having been done today. The Departments have been closed and the work of the Government suspended. It is interesting to note how, for the most part, the partisan hates bred in the excitement of war have been quenched by the lapse of time and by the great Secretary's death. On all sides a hearty and genuine expression of honor and respect is heard. Almost no word of bitterness is uttered. Already his life is felt by even his personal enemies to be the heritage of the nation.

CAMPAIGN PRINTING.

The Chronicle, this morning, denies the report that it has done $80,000 worth of campaign printing for the Congressional Committee. It declares it has done only about $27,000 worth, and that its profits on this have not exceeded $3,000. Senator Harlan has a controlling interest in the Chronicle, and is a member of the Congressional Committee, and has spent most of the Summer here attending to both enterprises. It has been pretty freely charged that his paper was supported during the dull newspaper season here by printing secured through favoritism from the Committee. The ex cathedra announcement shows how much truth there was in the allegation.

THE PROSPECT IN MISSOURI.

Gov. Fletcher, of Missouri, is in town. He brings the most encouraging news of the prospects in Missouri. He feels pretty sure it will be carried for Grant. The Republican canvass is more vigorous and thorough than ever before, and pains will be taken to strengthen it wherever it is known to be weak. Several able Germans are on the stump, and the pockets of Mr. Schurz are likely to be lightened after election day by all the Missouri German voters they contained.

THE AURORA BOREALIS.

There was an unusually brilliant display of Northern lights here during the early part of the evening, covering about one-eighth of the heavens. The color was a bright pink, at times deepening almost to scarlet, and tinging the earth with the reflection.

THE NORTHERN ROUTE TO THE PACIFIC.

The War Department has received from Capt. S. C. Kellogg, of the Fifth United States Cavalry, an official report of the military expedition which recently accompanied the surveying party of the Northern Pacific Railroad from the point in Dakota where that road crosses the Missouri River to the crossing of the Yellowstone River in Montana, near the mouth of the Powder River. The military escort consisted of 537 enlisted men and 34 company officers, and was commanded by Gen. Stanly. The entire expedition, including troops, Indian scouts, teamsters and railroad engineers, numbered 757. Its object was to complete the final locating survey of the railroad line across the western half of Dakota from the Missouri to the Yellowstone River. On two or three occasions straggling parties of Indians appeared on the flanks of the column and fired upon the troops, probably with the hope of creating a stampede, which would enable them to capture or steal horses and mules. They were easily driven off in all cases without serious fighting, and entirely without loss on the part of the escort. The expedition ascended the Valley of Heart River, a tributary of the Missouri, crossed the low divide between the Missouri and the Yellowstone, and followed down the valley of O'Fallon's Creek to the Yellowstone River. The mouth of Powder River was reached on Aug. 18, where a salute was fired, and the expedition prepared to return eastward. The return march was made at the rate of four or five miles per day, which enabled the engineers to make careful surveys and effect a final location of the railroad line across the section of country referred to, being a distance of about 235 miles. A practicable and excellent route was found without difficulty, and without any serious divergencies from a straight line. The river valleys along which the line mainly runs were found to be uniformly fertile, and the "bad lands" which are represented on most maps as covering a large part of the region traversed were almost wholly avoided by the route taken. Grass was abundant all the way from the Missouri to the Yellowstone, and good water was found at convenient intervals during the entire march. Extensive beds of lignite and semi-bituminous coal were found at frequent intervals for a distance of 150 miles. Timber exists in considerable quantities, especially in the river valley, and consists mainly of oak, ash and cottonwood. The expedition was made without accidents or mishaps of any kind, and resulted as above stated, in the discovery and location of an excellent railroad route.

The Germans and the Mayoralty.

The Central Committee of the German Reform organizations held a special meeting at the Beethoven Maennerchor Hall last night. Mr. Oswald Ottendorfer occupied the chair.

Mr. George Kuester, of the Executive Committee, offered resolutions declaring it to be of the utmost importance—nay, absolutely necessary, for the welfare and honor of the City that at the present election, Mr. James O'Brien as a candidate for Mayor, should be defeated; that this, in their opinion, can only be accomplished by uniting all true reform elements on one candidate for the office for Mayor and that therefore all other Reform organizations should be called upon to unite with them in nominating Mr. Oswald Ottendorfer.

Mr. Ottendorfer, after giving up the chair to Mr. Henry Clausen, briefly addressed the meeting, stating that under certain circumstances he felt it his duty to accept the nomination, but thought that the resolutions should be brought into a different form. He could not tolerate a candidate to be dictated to the other organizations. An amendment offered by Mr. Ottendorfer, to the effect that his name, jointly with the name of Mr. W. F. Havemeyer, be recommended as candidates to the Committee of Seventy and the different Reform organizations, gave rise to a lengthy debate, which finally resulted in its adoption.

Who Will be Tammany's Candidate for Mayor?

A meeting of the Young Men's Democratic Reform Club was held, last night, at No. 907 Broadway, Mr. John A. Foley in the chair. Resolutions indorsing the nomination of Abraham R. Lawrence, Jr., for Mayor were adopted. Mr. Kilbreth, who entered the room after the above action had been taken in reference to Mr. Lawrence, moved the reconsideration of the resolutions, and stated his reasons for so doing. He had just been informed on trustworthy authority that the name of Mr. Lawrence was about to be withdrawn, as it was evident he would not be able to secure the support of certain associations in the City, and Mr. Ottendorfer's name substituted. While he (Mr. Kilbreth) was as anxious as any of them for Mr. Lawrence's success, he thought the Club should postpone action in the matter until next week, as it would look curious for them to indorse Mr. Lawrence one day, and have to indorse Mr. Ottendorfer the next. After considerable discussion the motion was withdrawn.

THE BROOKLYN REPUBLICANS

A Grand Demonstration by the Patriots Last Night.

Stirring Speeches by Senator Brown, of Indiana, and Gen. Bruce, of Madison County.

A mass-meeting of the Republicans of the Fourth Ward was held last evening at the Brooklyn Republican Head-quarters, Mr. S. C. Caill in the chair. A large number of ladies were in attendance, and evinced a lively interest in the proceedings.

Gen. Bruce, of Madison County, said that the American people were now about to exercise the greatest privilege accorded to any people of any nation in the world, and it was a sacred duty due not merely to themselves and their country, but to their consciences and their God, to see that they deposited their ballot with the sole object of serving and advancing the interests of their country, and not from any personal influences, or from ignorance of the true effect of their action. The history of the past ten years should convince every honest and free-thinking man that the interests of the people were not safe in the hands of the Democratic Party. He did not mean to say that there were not loyal and faithful men in that party, but he asserted that the men who gave tone and character to it were in secret, if not in active sympathy with rebellion. When the war broke out James Buchanan, a Democrat, was at the head of the and with the retirement of the Democratic President measures were commenced and carried on so actively that though it took years to suppress the rebellion, success finally crowned their efforts. In 1862 Mr. Greeley, in his paper, the Tribune, declared that the States had the right to secede, and that statement, read in the Legislature of Georgia by Toombs, decided the action of that State, and it joined the disaffected. It was in that same paper Mr. Greeley raised the cry "on to Richmond" before the armies were in a condition to make a single effective step, and, to a large extent, the first disasters of our armies at the commencement. Government and his associates in the administration of the Government were thieves, who stole the national money and converted it to the purposes of the rebels. The eleven States that rebelled were Democratic, so-called, and when the Governor of New-York asked Buchanan to commence active measures against them he replied, "If I do I am afraid they will shoot me." Contrast his pusillanimous conduct with that of Andrew Jackson, who, when informed in 1832 that South Carolina had rebelled, started up in the middle of the night and quickly stamped out the embers of a revolution. But Lincoln ascended the Presidential chair ment of the struggle were indebted to that source. Later in the contest Greeley was found in the northern frontier treating for a discontinuance of the war, and the perpetuation of slavery, and finally at its close he is discovered hastening to the South to stand bail for Jeff. Davis. And this was the man whom the Democrats put forward as their candidate, and who claimed the support of the entire Republican Party of this country. But the history of this conflict, as overshadowed by the result of the recent elections, already attested that Greeleyism and the enemies of liberty were dead; and that the people though the whole country, black and white, foreign and native born, were determined to preserve and perpetuate the Union. [Applause.] As a contrast to the conduct of Greeley, the speaker drew a lively picture of the efforts and triumphs of Grant, and claimed that no American, of any party, could hesitate as to where his country called him to deposit his vote. It was lamentable that a great party could only carry one State, for Greeleyism has only carried Georgia.

A VOICE—That is the State; he has that sure. [Hisses.]

Mr. Bruce said Greeley had got two States more, and these were the state of disappointment and the state of disgrace. [Cheers.] Mr. Bruce referred to the present prosperous condition of the country, and asserted that the safety of the nation was attributable to the Republican Party, and that party was determined to continue to control its destinies.

SPEECH OF SENATOR BROWN, OF INDIANA.

Senator Brown, who was received with cheers, said: To-night I shall examine the questions involved in this campaign from a Democratic standpoint. I shall inquire whether a Democrat can conscientiously and consistently support Greeley for the Presidency, for I don't want you to suppose that I have traveled eight hundred miles to speak to Republicans on this subject. If I understood correctly the tenets and doctrines of the Democratic Party, it was a national party devoted to the advancement of national ideas and the promotion of national men. It was ever the pleasure of that party, while it lived, to unite all its power, its energy, its vigor and its ability to prevent the success of sectionalism or sectional men. If I understood the opinions of the masses of Democracy aright, it was a party that believed that the Constitution of the United States made a perpetual bond of union among all the States. I know very well that there were some politicians and leaders of that party who believed that the Constitution of the United States was a mere covenant or agreement, or article of partnership subsisting between the States, which could be broken at the pleasure of any State, and that the Union existed only upon the consent of the States. But I never heard that was true so far as any great number of the Democratic politicians of the North was concerned, and most certainly say it was a falsehood and a slander when alleged against the masses of the Democratic Party. For they believe as sincerely that the Constitution of the United States made a perpetual bond of union of all the States, as did their Republican neighbors believe. [Applause.] But it occurs to me if ever there was a time in the history of the country when the public men would have some plausible right of saying that the Democratic Party was unfaithful to the Constitution and the Union because of the candidate for the Presidency it supports, that time is now. Horace Greeley has been a sectional man all his life. Not only the avowed and bitter enemy of the Democratic Party, but he has been the advocate of sectionalism in every form and in every character. [Applause.] While the Democratic Party was warning the people of the country of the danger of the success of sectionalism, Greeley, with all his power and influence and ability was advocating the success only of those measures which were to contribute to the success of some portions of the country to the disadvantage of other portions. During his life he has been the zealous and earnest advocate of the doctrine that this Union existed only by reason of the voluntary consent of the States, and that the Constitution of the United States was not the supreme law of the land in so far as it had any power or authority to compel a single State to remain within the Union of States longer that State voluntarily consented to remain. And when you were endeavoring to defend yourselves against the charge of infidelity to the Constitution, your present candidate for the Presidency was saying to the people everywhere that it was an inalienable right, belonging to any State, to destroy the Constitution and break from the Union for a real or imaginary grievance. When these charges were preferred, you said that Davis and his associates were guilty of treason, and deserved the scaffold, but you also said that Greeley, Banks, and the others, also deserved the scaffold because they encouraged them to treason. Examine Greeley's conduct, and see if he has any claims upon the Democratic suffrage. When the war first threatened ruin and destruction to the nation, in his paper, the Tribune, he told the people of the South that if by legislative or conventional act any considerable majority in any State desired to dissolve the Union and be a separate and independent Government, that he would aid them with all his power and ability to accomplish that object. Are you, Democrats, in favor of allowing them to accomplish that object? If you are not, why then will you support a candidate who encouraged and abetted the rebels to dissolve the Union and annul the Constitution? If it was right for the people of New-York to send its gallant sons to wipe out Jeff. Davis by the cartridge-box, I should like to know if it is not right for them, also, to wipe out Horace Greeley, who was the confederate of Davis, with the ballot-box? [Applause.] It is a fact known to us all that during those long years of bloody war, Greeley opposed every measure that the Democratic Party was in favor of. Greeley clamored for the most relentless spirit of warfare ever known to Christian civilization. He was in favor of arming the slaves of the South, to turn them out at midnight to pillage and plunder and murder and rob without limit, he advocated the conduct of the war in opposition to the known rules and regulations of Christian conversation; and this is the man now clamoring for reconciliation, peace, union, fraternal relations between the people of the North and South. However, nature beats the same in the Southern as in the Northern breast, And tell me not that the man who pursued the course toward the people of the South that he has pursued—who advised them to seek to withdraw from the Union, and pledged them his aid and encouragement—the man who broke that pledge, and cried for their murder and plunder, the sacrifice of their homes and their fireside, tell me not that such a man man can ever heal the wounds of the South and bring about that peace and reconciliation that we all desire so much. [Applause.] There is a better man to perform that office, as the man who preserved Lee from trial for treason, and who did the act of reconstruct the rebels. Greeley's nomination by the South is simply because he entertains the same opinions in reference to the lost cause that they do. [Applause.] They are for Greeley because they know for forty years he has sought to convince the people that the Constitution of the United States is merely a league to be broken at will, and not because of his promises of reconciliation. [Applause.] Has Mr. Greeley changed? After his nomination at Baltimore his paper said: "A few years ago if Mr. Greeley had ventured into Georgia or South Carolina, he would have been hanged to the nearest lamp-post; but now his name is cheered to the echo in every Southern city, and the ex-slaveholders and rebel soldiers, the men who always made Southern opinion, are in favor of electing him President." Suppose they are, is that a compliment to the loyal men of the North? The Tribune also says: "Yet Mr. Greeley has not changed his principles, nor repudiated his record." If he has not changed, then his principles are that this Union exists only by reason of the voluntary consent of the States, and that there is no power to keep them together. Will you support him for the Presidency? ["No! No!"] At Pittsburg the other day he said, "I demand that there shall be open, free discussion before the Southern people, an honest, unterrified, untrameled vote, and if they approve, if the people of the South say they want disunion I will consent to it." The opinion there expressed carried the State of Georgia for Greeley for they know he will consent to disunion. Are you willing to consent to disunion? If not, why vote for Greeley? Never can the interests of the Republic or the perpetuity of the Union be maintained with Greeley in the Presidential chair. This is no mere politician's talk. The question is whether you desire the union of these States to be imperiled by Greeley's election. Senator Brown maintained that Greeley did not deserve the Democratic support, and proceeded to read an extract from a speech of Hon. Stanly Matthews, in Cincinnati, declaring that none of the members of the Cincinnati Convention was bound by its acts unless with the sanction and approval of his own individual judgment, and saying that the nomination of Mr. Greeley by that Convention was by a bargain, in contravention of the previously-announced declaration that there should be no bargain in that Convention. Mr. Greeley had said he had no possible claim to Democratic support, and did not ask any, and yet members of the Democratic Party are maligned and denounced if they refuse to give their adherence to Mr. Greeley. Mr. Voorhees ran behind his ticket in Indiana some four hundred votes, in an unsuccessful run for Congress, simply because he declared, in a letter written from Washington, and in a speech at Terre Haute, that he could not support Mr. Greeley. Yet, after all, he did support him. He came home, and became one of the most blatant of Greeley's supporters. The speaker referred to the fact that the Democrats had, in a master-stroke of policy, adopted the platform of the Republican Party, but improving largely on its doctrines. But there was this difference—the Republicans asserted these doctrines because they believed them to be right, while the Democrats declared them, because they were out, and wanted to get in. A few years ago, the Democrats were, in every campaign, opposed to the Fifteenth Amendment, and Democrats even refused to let their children go to a public school where a colored child might have entered. Neither the colored men nor the white Republicans have forgotten, nor can they ever forget, the unrelenting opposition of the Democratic Party to the Fifteenth Amendment. But the Democrats say they have seen their error and have been converted. There is room to doubt their sincerity; they should remain a while on probation. Referring to the civil service reform, the speaker said that the Democrats are loudly pledging the country to turn dishonest men out of office, and place honest men in office. Then they cannot quarrel with Gen. Grant on that point, for that is just what Gen. Grant has been doing for three and a half years, and what he will continue to do four and a half years more. Mr. Brown drew a parallel between the paper money of the present time, with the Government faith and interest-bearing bonds pledged to its redemption, and the paper currency issued by bonds of former years, and chartered by Democratic Administrations. He concluded with a review of the past several Administrations with reference to the amount the Government has lost by defaulting office-holders, showing that under Gen. Grant the loss from this cause has been but very insignificant.

Mr. P. G. Ostrander next addressed the audience, after which the meeting broke up with cheers for Grant and Wilson.

GIGANTIC BANK ROBBERY.

Over Half a Million in Bonds and Money Stolen—The Cashier and His Family Gagged.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WATERFORD, N. Y., Oct. 14.—The Saratoga County National Bank of this village was robbed of $500,000 in stocks and bonds, and $9,500 in money, between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock this morning. The robbers were nine in number. It is not known how they secured entrance.

The cashier, Mr. Van Havenberg, and his family, consisting of five persons, besides himself, occupied apartments in the second story of the bank building. They all attended church last evening, and, it is believed, by mistake left one of the doors unlocked. It is supposed that some rascals discovered this oversight, and, taking advantage of it, secreted themselves in the building.

At 1 o'clock this morning, two men appeared at the bedside of Mr. and Mrs. Van Havenberg, and proceeded to gag them. The remainder of the family was served in the same manner. Mr. Van Havenberg was then taken into the bank counting-room and compelled to open the vault doors. The burglars then took possession of all the valuables therein contained, and depositing them in a wagon, drove off.

The bonds and stocks were mostly negotiable and belonged to private parties, who must bear the loss. The $9,500 in cash taken belonged to the bank. No trace of the thieves nor of the disposition of the plunder has been obtained. It is reported, however, that the police of Hudson have arrested two men.

INDIANA.

Hendricks' Majority, 894—The Legislature—Vote of the Ninth Congressional District.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14.—The official vote of seventy-seven counties, received at the office of the Secretary of State, with semi-official returns from the other eighteen counties, give T. A. Hendricks, (Democrat,) for Governor, 894 majority; Leonidas Sexton, (Republican,) for Lieutenant-Governor, 1,313 majority; W. W. Curry, (Republican,) for Secretary of State, 1,163; J. A. Wiedmar, (Republican,) for Auditor, 1,224 majority; J. B. Glover, (Republican,) for Treasurer, 1,520 majority; G. L. Orth, Republican, for Congress at large, 1,141 majority; William Williams, Republican, for Congress at large, 1,474 majority. The balance of the State ticket, except Superintendent of Public Instruction, is Republican. For the latter office Milton B. Hopkins, Democrat, is elected.

The Legislature, from the official returns, will stand, 54 Republicans to 46 Democrats in the House, and 27 Republicans to 23 Democrats in the Senate.

The official vote of the Ninth Congressional District elects Neff over Shanks, Republican, by 28 votes; but in one township in Adams County, Shanks' district, 47 Republican votes were thrown out on account of the words "Republican Ticket" being printed at the head of the ticket. If these votes are allowed, Shanks will be elected by 19 votes.

Both parties are preparing to renew the contest for the Presidential election.

BARBAROUS BRUTALITY.

The Debut of a Young Boxer—"Seddons' Mouse" Defeats "Sailor Jack" in a Glove-Fight—A Sickening Scene.

The "Arbor," a noted sporting-house at No. 26 West Houston-street, kept by George Seddons and Arthur Chambers, the light-weight pugilists, was the scene last night of a most brutal exhibition. Seddons has had for some time past under his tutelage a boy named Stephen O'Reilly, seventeen years old, about 120 pounds weight. From his aptitude in pugilism he became known as "Seddons' Mouse." Last evening the Arbor was crowded by sporting people, among whom were A. C. Farrington, Mickey Fay, Patsy Hogan, Johnny Dwyer, Mike Coburn, Joe Siler, Uncle Bill Tovee, and many others, who waited to see a glove-fight between the "Mouse" and Billy Salt, alias "Sailor Jack," of Elizabethport, N. J. Salt was a man about twenty-six years old, stoutly built, and weighing 135 pounds. It soon became apparent that the "Mouse," who was seconded by Seddons and Tim Collins, was by far the most scientific of the two, although the knuckles of his right hand were knocked out of place before the fight began. Betting grew brisk, and was eagerly accepted by Chambers and Kelly, who seconded Sailor Jack. From a simple glove fight, although the gloves were were not taken off the contest became a real one. For two hours and forty-five minutes it continued. The "Mouse" forced all the fighting, and his gloves were completely covered with blood, which poured from his opponent's mouth, nose and ears. At length it was seen that "Sailor Jack," although full of pluck, could not hold out, and he fell at the end of every round like a carcass of raw beef. The last round was a terrible one, the "Mouse" uppercutting and slugging Salt in a fearful way until he fell almost senseless, and Chambers threw up the sponge.

ILLINOIS.

Speaker Blaine in Chicago—Scathing Review of the Democratic Attitude, and of Greeley in Supporting Them.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 14—Notwithstanding the unusual severity of the weather, an immense audience of enthusiastic Republicans, estimated at from 10,000 to 12,000, assembled in the West-side Rink, to-night, to listen to Hon. Jas. G. Blaine, Speaker of the House of Representatives. Mr. Blaine began his speech by alluding to the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution as the grandest results of the late civil war. These amendments and the legislation in aid thereof were opposed by the Democratic Party, and Horace Greely was today arrayed in opposition to them, and pledged to the support of the Southern theory of State sovereignty. The attitude of the Southern States since the war had compelled the passage of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments and the Kuklux bills. Twenty-three thousand American citizens had been maimed, robbed, imprisoned and beaten in the South since the war because of their loyalty. Six thousand had been killed, or more than two each day since the close of the war. Hence the necessity for the Kuklux bill, which simply provided Federal protection for American citizens where local protection was denied. The speaker then proceeded to make a scathing review of the action of the Cincinnati Convention called for the express purpose of free trade, it had, after a three days session, nominated the most notorious protectionist in the land. Greeley's letter of acceptance of that nomination was an artful bid for the Baltimore nomination and the rebel vote, and pledged him to the support of the Southern idea of State sovereignty. But Greeley demanded amnesty. The Republican Party had given amnesty to a million of rebels in arms against the United States in the war. Not one had been executed, not a dollar of property had been confiscated, and of this million of men only 285 remained unpardoned, while the French Government had transported thirty thousand Communists and gullotined one hundred. Twenty-two rebels now occupy seats in Congress, and the small number yet unpardoned were officers who had deserted their ships, abandoned their posts in the army, resigned judicial and Cabinet positions, disgraced the flag and violated their oaths. What need of further amnesty?

Mr. Blaine's speech of two hours' duration, which was listened to with the closest attention, and frequently interrupted by deafening applause, has infused new life into the campaign. Senator Logan occupied the platform, and at the close made a short but telling speech. Chicago is thoroughly aroused. A grand demonstration and parade of Tanners will take place on Wednesday evening.

A CHAPTER OF CRIMES.

Murdered While Aiding an Officer to Make an Arrest—Murder in a Baggage-Room of a Railway Depot—Killed in a Fight.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LOCKHAVEN, Penn., Oct. 14.—A man named Smith was stabbed to death by a man named Ferguson on Saturday night at Jersey Shore. Smith was assisting an officer to arrest Ferguson. The murderer is in jail.

At 5½ o'clock this morning, H. D. Fitch, aged sixty years, who has been baggage-master of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad at this place since 1865, was wounded with a hatchet in such a manner that he must die. It is supposed that the act was committed by some one holding spite against Fitch. He received five bad cuts on the head, and his throat was cut. The greatest excitement prevails in this city. The murderer or murderers have escaped. The deed was committed in the baggage-room of the depot.

Information has just been received here that a man named Hammerker was murdered in a fight at Lewistown yesterday.

Infamous Betrayal of Trust by an Ex-Congressman in Philadelphia—Probable Wife Murder by an Inebriate Husband.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 14.—It is reported that a former member of Congress from one of the districts in this city has disappeared, taking with him considerable property belonging to two widows and one or two other persons. The statement is that he became attorney for the widows and persuaded them to place their stocks in his keeping, promising to return them dividends. He made one or two payments and then disappeared, since which nothing has been heard either of the stocks or their custodian. The value of the stocks is about $20,000.

Mary Neally, who resided in the attic of No. 1,430 Fitzwater-street, was found dead this evening, with several of her ribs broken and her breast crushed in. Her husband, who is an intemperate man, is supposed to have killed her. Cries of murder were heard in the afternoon, and when the room was entered in the evening, the body was found as stated, and the husband holding up the head. He was arrested.

Twenty Thousand Dollars' Worth of Watches Stolen in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 14.—The heaviest robbery that has occurred in this city for a number of years was perpetrated some time between 1 and 6 o'clock on Saturday morning last, at the Hess House, on Third-avenue. Two sample trunks filled with watches, valued at $20,600, belonging to Eichberg & Co., of New-York, were taken from the office of the hotel, where they had been left by M. N. Strauss, the traveling agent for that firm. The robbery was discovered on Saturday morning, but was kept quiet. Detectives are at work on the case.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—1 A. M.—Rising barometer, fresh northerly to westerly winds and an occasional rain, but clearing weather continues on the lower lakes, and, excepting the rain extending over the Middle States and Lower New-England, higher pressure, cool, clear weather and gentle northerly winds prevail in the Gulf and South Atlantic States. From the Lower Ohio Valley northward and westward to Michigan and Minnesota, southerly winds and falling barometer, with as yet cool, clear or partly cloudy weather.

PROBABILITIES.

In the New-England and the Middle States, clearing and clear weather, light westerly to southerly winds and rising barometer will prevail; in the South Atlantic and Gulf States, clear weather, high barometer, northerly winds veering to north-easterly with partly cloudy weather on the Gulf coast. In the upper Mississippi and lower Ohio Valleys, southerly to westerly winds, warmer and partly cloudy weather, extending with greater disturbance to the upper lakes; on the lower lakes winds veering to southerly with falling barometer and cloudy weather on Tuesday evening.

Reports from the trans-Mississippi stations are missing.

The Pennsylvania Election—Result in Luzerne County.

SCRANTON, Penn., Oct. 14.—The official returns of the vote in Luzerne County show 14,433 for Buckalew, and 12,341 for Hartranft. Shoemaker, Republican, is elected to Congress from the Twelfth District by 689 majority.

LAKE DISASTERS.

Foundering of a Propeller on Lake Michigan—The Crew and Passengers Take to the Boats—Burning of a Propeller on Lake Ontario.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 14.—A private dispatch from Racine, Wis., says that a boat, with eleven men, had just arrived there from the propeller Lac la Belle, which foundered about twenty miles off that place this morning. The passengers by the boat think that all the boats are safe, and but few, if any, lives lost. The Lac la Belle belonged to the Engelmann Transportation Company.

LATER.—Another private dispatch from Racine says that another boat from the Lac la Belle has arrived, including the Captain, H. W. Thompson, and the Purser, William Sanderson. Four or five boat-loads and one raft left the wreck. Two of the boats started to the southward, one to the northward, and the course of the others is unknown. One of the boats was filled principally with ladies. The vessel sprung a leak at 12 midnight, and went down at 2 P. M. She was heavily laden with flour, grain and pork.

KINGSTON, Canada, Oct. 14.—The propeller China left here last evening, bound up, having on board 300 tons of pig-iron and a quantity of merchandise. When about fourteen miles out it was discovered that she was on fire, and notwithstanding the utmost efforts of the crew and the assistance rendered by two steamers which were close at hand, she burned to the water's edge. It is supposed that she sunk. All hands were saved. The origin of the fire is unknown. It had made great headway before being discovered. It is said that the propeller was insured for $14,000, which will not cover the loss.

Another of the Lac la Belle Boats Safe.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—A despatch from Racine, dated 10 o'clock to-night, says another boat with persons saved from the wreck of the Lac la Belle has come ashore all right. The names of those on board are Peter Weller, Mr. Warren and wife, Robert Fogg, Louis Ochstein, Beckey Campbell, the chamber-maid, and Will Sanderson. The names of those on the two boats, whose arrival was previously reported, could not be ascertained. There are two boats yet to hear from. No list of the names of the steamer's passengers is registered on land. The other boats have probably come ashore out of reach of the telegraph. The report that some of the passengers embarked on a raft is erroneous.

The second engineer of the Lac La Belle, who was in one of the boats which has arrived here, gives the following account of the disaster: They left Milwaukee at 9 o'clock last night. About midnight the steamer sprung a leak and made water rapidly. There were about twenty-five passengers on board including seven ladies and three children. The crew worked hard all night to prevent the vessel from sinking, and threw considerable cargo overboard, but all to no purpose. Finding the steamer about to sink, they prepared to take to the life-boats, of which there were five. Into one of these five of the ladies were put, with a good crew to manage it. The men were, however, tired, having worked all night with nothing to eat and suffering from cold. When the last boat left the steamer I saw five men left on her. When she went down I saw four of them in the water, and one clinging to a piece of timber. I think they must have been lost, as we could give them no assistance without danger to swamping the boat. Two of the five boats drifted toward Kenosha.

SPAIN.

The Ferrol Insurrection—Rebels Concentrating in the Arsenal.

MADRID, Oct. 14.—A dispatch from Ferrol, received in Madrid late last night, says the insurrectionists made two attacks on the frigate Asturias yesterday, but in both instances were speedily repulsed by the crew. Three Government vessels are blockading the entrance to the harbor of Ferrol, and it is impossible for any of the vessels captured by the rebels to get out. Anarchy prevails in the insurgent band, and it is believed that the insurrection will be overthrown by the first attack of the Government troops.

Marshal Pregna, Captain-General of the Province of Corunna, has arrived at Ferrol with a force of Government troops. The rebels continue to concentrate at the Arsenal. Fifteen hundred insurrectionists, who left Ferrol for Jubia, were intercepted by the force under Marshal Bregna and retreated to the town.

THE MAYORALTY.

Senator O'Brien's Speech and Letter of Acceptance—What He Will do if Elected Mayor.

The Committee of twenty-one appointed at Apollo Hall on Saturday evening to inform Senator O'Brien of his nomination for Mayor of this City assembled yesterday morning in the parlors of the Andrew Jackson Club-house, where the Senator met them. Among those present were William C. Barrett, Chairman of the Committee, Julius Wadsworth, D. R. Lyddy, Henry L. Clinton, Wm. C. Whitney, Roswell D. Hatch, Aldermen Mehrback and Fitzgerald, and numerous others. Mr. Barrett addressed Mr. O'Brien in a few appropriate words, and then read to him the letter prepared by the Committee, to which Mr. O'Brien replied, pledging himself, if elected to the responsible office of Chief Magistrate of the City, that his every effort should be directed for the good of his fellow-citizens. He said that the great issue of the campaign was very clear—it was honesty against dishonesty; that he was decidedly opposed to retaining in the public service an army of idle and worthless officials who for their large salaries rendered no equivalent; and that common sense and common honesty were as requisite in politics as in the affairs of business life. Above all things, he desired to have the good opinion of all the honest citizens of New-York, and would do all that he could to secure and retain it. He also stated that he would, in the course of the day, prepare and forward a written reply to the letter presented to him by the Chairman of the Committee. The following is the correspondence:

NEW-YORK, 14th October, 1872.

DEAR SIR: The County Convention of the "Democratic Reform Association" assembled at Apollo Hall on the evening of the 12th instant, unanimously nominated you as candidate for Mayor of this City at the approaching election.

When corruption reigned triumphant in every department of our City Government; when official dishonesty dismayed and disheartened our community; when official honesty yielded to official corruption, you were foremost in the great work of reform, and with the aid of other honored citizens, exposed official plunder, saved the City from bankruptcy, and rescued the time-honored name of Democracy from the verge of ruin.

The people are not ungrateful; they are not unmindful of your Aldermanic history, when you were faithful among the faithless: neither do they forget your faithful and honest discharge of duty in the responsible office of Sheriff of this County. Above all, your fearless and independent action in the Senate of this State upon every question of reform and of public interest justifies the belief that in the Municipal chair of this City you will be guided by integrity and zeal for public good.

As Chairman of the Committee selected to announce to you the action of the Convention, I have the honor to inform you of your nomination, and to request your acceptance of the same.

Yours, very truly,
WM. C. BARRETT, Chairman, &c.
JAMES O'BRIEN, &c., &c.

NEW-YORK, 14th October, 1872.

DEAR SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date, informing me that the County Convention of the Democratic Reform Association, assembled at Apollo Hall on the evening of the 12th inst., unanimously nominated me as candidate for Mayor of this City at the approaching election.

I am grateful for this mark of public confidence, and in accepting the nomination, permit me to say that if, by the favor of my fellow-citizens, I shall be elevated to the Chief Magistracy of this City, my every energy shall be devoted to the public good. The corruption in our Municipal Government has, it is true, by the energy of honored and able men, been checked and in part removed. Dishonest and dishonored officials, who obtained office by fraud, and the culpable neglect of our citizens, controlled Legislatures, corrupted newspapers, and debauched the Judiciary, have by an outraged people been swept from power and brought before the bar of justice.

The corruption in our Municipal Government never could have reached its gigantic proportions had not the "Ring" found willing aid and support from venal legislators, elected by both the great political parties. The plunder of our City is quite as attributable to a corrupt Legislature as to the officials who corrupted it, and our Municipal Government can never be completely purified or conducted with rigid economy until the people are aroused to the necessity of electing men to the Legislature of known integrity.

We may have, and I believe we now have, an honest and upright Judiciary; but with a dishonest and "bribe-accepting" Legislature our Courts will be powerless for good, inasmuch as they are bound to execute the laws, however bad.

I pledge my every effort to purify our political life, and to arouse my friends and supporters to the vital importance of sending faithful, honest and competent men to the next Legislature.

Let me thank you, my dear Sir, and the honored gentlemen by whom you were accompanied on the delivery of your letter, for the too partial and complimentary reference to my past official life.

I can only add, that I shall endeavor to merit a continuance of your good opinion and the confidence of my fellow-citizens.

I have the honor to be, dear Sir, yours faithfully,
JAMES O'BRIEN.
To WILLIAM C. BARRETT, Chairman, &c.

Peter Cooper's Views on the Mayoralty and Mr. Havemeyer—The Powers of the Aldermen.

The following letter to Mr. Havemeyer from Hon. Peter Cooper embodies the latter gentleman's views on the Mayoralty and Municipal Government:

NEW-YORK, Oct. 12, 1872.

Hon. William F. Havemeyer:

DEAR SIR: I write to express the gratification I feel on seeing your honored name again announced as a candidate for the Chief Magistracy of our City. My pleasure arises from the confidence inspired by the able manner in which you discharged the duties of that responsible office on a former occasion—an office rendered more difficult by circumstances at that time, than ever before.

By the law, then passed, it was made your duty to change the old method of watching the City by men hired for the night, to a regularly organized Police. This great responsibility was devolved on you by the then existing Democratic Party, more than twenty-five years ago. I shall never forget, nor ever cease to admire the noble and unselfish manner in which you entered upon that delicate and most difficult duty. I shall never forget the statement you made me of your determination to do all in your power to prevent the Police force of this City from taking on a mere party and political character. You saw the danger that this department might become master of the City through a corrupt City Government. Like the Janissaries, they might oppress the people as in Constantinople or Tunis, and defy the law, until it became necessary to obtain deliverance by a general massacre of those who should have been guardians of the public peace. As the law then stood, a corrupt Mayor had the power to extort from the community the means to enrich himself and his partisans. I know that you will join with me, my dear friend, and with all goods citizens in this community, in the heartfelt wish that the day will soon come when our City Government shall cease to be controlled by the national and State politics of our country. When that day shall come, there will be an end also, I trust, to all special, partial and class legislation; when every law shall be only general, free to every company and individual that may require its protection. To obtain and to maintain a good government we need the wisdom of simplicity. We need laws that can easily be understood and strictly enforced. Every law passed should aim only to give security to life, labor and the pursuit of happiness. We must remove the power that enables bad men, by formal acts of legislation obtained by corruption, to seize the property of others intrusted to their care. Such laws are mere traps to catch the unsuspecting and sacrifice their property. Our City Government requires the same kind of common sense and discrimination that a good business man adopts for the proper transaction of his private affairs. He looks for men of capacity and integrity to whom to intrust the management of his business. He sees how ruinous it would be to subject the transaction of his business to an annual change of men and measures. A wise community will, like a wise individual, take the necessary measures to secure men of integrity and capacity to fill every place required for the public service. I would also have all offices but those subject to election, all appointments made, either for a definite period, or limited only to good behavior and ability to discharge the duties.

My own opinion is that our Common Council should be purely a legislative body; that all the executive work should be carried on through bureaus and departments, as is the General Government of the country. Our Mayor, elected by the people, might well be clothed with power to dismiss from office, for any good cause publicly stated, the heads of any of the Departments of the City Government. He should also have the power, it seems to me, to prorogue the Common Council at any time when the interest of the people, in his opinion, should demand it. A re-election would correct his mistake if he made one, and regular impeachment would punish improper conduct in his office. In this way the Mayor would be made personally responsible to the people for the proper administration of every Department of the City Government. True government must always emanate from the people, and subject to their deliberate verdict, if it be well adapted to establish justice and promote the general welfare.

We should have a carefully devised civil service to test the qualifications of the men in the Executive departments. On this important point I beg to offer a few suggestions. It seems to me advisable that there should be a law under which the people of the City should elect at least one man from each Ward, distinguished for character and ability, who should be bound by oath to make a thorough inquiry into the qualifications, mental and moral, of all applicants for any executive office subject to appointment. These men should be bound to make all their examinations entirely irrespective of the national or State politics, or of the religion of the applicants. One-third of this Council might be made to leave their places by a new election every year.

The freedom and purity of elections should be most carefully guarded. For this purpose, I should recommend that every man who registers his name as a voter in his respective Ward, carefully guarded from forgery, which he must show at the polls, and which alone should entitle him to vote, and the registry should be made at least one month before the election. Pardon the freedom of these few suggestions made by one who, although in his declining years, still keeps a warm interest in his heart for the happiness and welfare of his country and City.

Having a distinct recollection of your invaluable services in times long past, I now hope soon to see you elected again the Chief Magistrate of our City, and clothed with sufficient power to organize a good and pure Government for the commercial Metropolis of this great nation.

Very respectfully, PETER COOPER.

NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE.

The Meeting Today—Important Subjects for Discussion—The Programme for the Session.

The National Board of Trade will convene in this City today, at 12 o'clock, at the Chamber of Commerce. An address of welcome will be delivered by Mr. Dodge in behalf of the Chamber, which will be responded to by Hon. Frederick Fraley, of Philadelphia, in behalf of the Board.

There will then be elected for the ensuing year a President, fourteen Vice-Presidents, a Secretary and Treasurer, who together constitute the Executive Council. The Board will then adjourn to the room which it is to occupy for the remainder of the session at the City Hall.

The following is the official list of subjects which will be considered by the National Board of Trade:

1. The "Annual Assessment," Portland Board of Trade. 2. "Investment of Insurance Funds," Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce. 3. "Issues of Scrip Dividends," Executive Council. 4. "Warehouse Receipts," Executive Council. 5. "Duty on Canadian Lumber, and Destruction of American Forests," Newark Board of Trade. 6. "Inland Water Communication," Buffalo Board of Trade. 7. "Classification and Rates of Freight by Railroad," Cincinnati Board of Trade. 8. "Transportation of Grain by Railroad, and Guarantee of Weight," Boston Commercial Exchange. 9. "Tare on Louisiana Sugar," Mobile Board of Trade. 10. "Market Reports," Boston Commercial Exchange. 11. "Immigration," Boston Board of Trade. 12. "Local Charges on Shipping," Boston Board of Trade. 13. "Ocean Postal Service from New-Orleans," New-Orleans Chamber of Commerce. 14. "American Shipping Interests," Philadelphia Board of Trade. 15. "American Shipping Interests," Boston Board of Trade. 16. "Ship-building in the Mississippi Valley," New-Orleans Chamber of Commerce. 17. "Gambling in Trade," Philadelphia Board of Trade. 18. "Reform in the Method of Voting," Boston Board of Trade. 19. "The Cotton Tax," Mobile Board of Trade. 20. "Free Trade in Money," Philadelphia Board of Trade. 21. "Reduction of Duties on Imports," Boston Board of Trade." 22. "Repeal of Tariff Duty on Railroad Iron," Mobile Board of Trade. 23. "Contraction of the Currency," Boston Board of Trade. 24. "Ship Canal near Fort St. Philip," New-Orleans Chamber of Commerce. 25. "Harbor Improvement and Canal Construction," Mobile Board of Trade. 26. "Telegraphic Reform," Boston Commercial Exchange. 27. "International Coinage and Decimal Measurement," Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce. 28. "National Bankrupt Law," Executive Council. 29. "State and Municipal Taxation," Executive Council.

The following is a portion of the resolution regarding "immigration," which the Boston Board of Trade has proposed for the consideration of the National Board:

Resolved, That in the judgment of the Board, Federal supervision over immigrants arriving in the United States, should cease after they have landed and passed through the Custom-house with their effects, and that their treatment subsequently may safely be left to the several States and municipalities upon the sea-board, and to the operation of the spirit of rivalry and competition, now so actively at work among them.

* * * * *

Resolved, That all capitation taxes collected from or upon immigrants, whether imposed directly or indirectly, with or without color of law, are odious and unjust, and ought to be abolished.

In regard to American shipping interests, the Boston Board of Trade also proposes the following resolution:

Resolved, That justice to the ship-owning interest and the best welfare of the national commerce, alike demand that the right be conceded by law to American citizens to purchase tonnage wherever built or owned, and to place it under the protection of their own flag.

The following resolutions are proposed by the Philadelphia Board of Trade:

Whereas, The preservation of a high tone of integrity in mercantile transactions should be the earnest desire of all business men; and,

Whereas, The practice of making corners in any kind of merchandise, involves the use of means, artificial, irregular and independent of the influences of a natural supply and demand, thereby demoralizing trade, and injuring the entire business community; therefore

Resolved, That it is the duty of the National Board of Trade to express its decided disapproval of a system which substitutes reckless gambling for fair dealing.

Resolved, That the banking institutions of the country should discourage loans to parties known to be engaged in making corners, by exacting such security as would confine their transactions to limits bounded by their actual means.

The Proposed Repeal of the Hack Law.

The hackmen of this city having been successful in their strike, are now endeavoring to secure other privileges, one of which is the right to solicit passengers at the railroad depots, steam-boat piers, &c. This proceeding was forbidden, by a City ordinance passed in 1866, and any driver who left his seat to solicit passengers was subjected to a fine. A petition was presented to the Board of Aldermen last week requesting the repeal of this ordinance, which repeal was passed without the slightest objection. Yesterday a committee of the Hackmen's Protective Association waited on the Board of Assistant Aldermen to get them to coincide with the measure; but owing to the Board adjourning, in consequence of the death of Hon. Wm. H. Seward, no action was taken upon the matter.

This movement on the part of the hackmen is creating considerable excitement throughout the City, especially among travelers, who recollect the outrages committed by the drivers and owners of hacks before the ordinance was passed. It was at that time dangerous, not only to property, but almost to life and limb, for a traveler to land at any pier or arrive at any railway station. To gain the street it was always necessary for the passenger, male or female, to run the gauntlet of a mob of hackmen, each pulling and hauling the victim in a different direction, so that if travelers succeeded in passing the line with sound limbs, they would certainly be minus a portion if not the whole of their portable baggage. Ladies especially were subjected to this outrage, and often have had to submit to the loss of their shawls and jewelry while running the gauntlet of hackmen at some steam-boat landing or railroad depot. To remedy this evil the ordinance was passed, and ever since has been found to have a salutary effect; consequently its repeal would be a flagrant outrage, and excite the indignation of every citizen that may have occasion to travel. Every person interested in either railroad or steamboat travel must feel that the repeal of the ordinance would be an injury to them, for no one would be willing to travel for pleasure when they know that on leaving or returning to the City they will have to fight against such an intolerable nuisance. It is to be hoped that the Municipal authorities will see the necessity of allowing the ordinance to remain in force.

Twenty-Eighth Anniversary of the Past Grand Masters' Council No. 1—G. U. O. O. F.—Imposing Display of Colored Citizens.

The twenty-eighth anniversary of the Past Grand Masters' Council No. 1, and Lodges of the Grand United Order of Odd fellows of the Cities of New-York and Brooklyn, was celebrated yesterday by a public parade and procession. The various Lodges formed into line at 11 o'clock on Fifth-avenue and Tenth-street, with P. G. M. Thomas Mann as Grand Marshal, with the following aids: P. G. M. Alfred H. Baker, P. G. M. James A. Glover, P. G. M. Thos. G. Anderson, P. G. M. Spencer H. Gilmore.

The procession, numbering 700 members, started at 11½ o'clock in the following order: Four mounted Marshals with drawn swords; colored band from Wilmington, Del.; Eastern Star Lodge, of Chicago; Lodges of New-York and Brooklyn, viz.: Philomathean, Terry and Hamilton Lodges, two German bands, Past Grand Marshals Curtis and Thomas Mann, carriages with prominent colored citizens, and lastly a huge wagon-load of children dressed in white. On a strip of canvas were the words, "These are our jewels."

All the members wore full regalia, and the officers displayed the emblems of their order. The line of march, which was thronged with crowds of colored persons, was down Fifth-avenue, through Washington Parade Ground to South Fifth-avenue, to Canal-street, to Broadway, to Fourteenth-street, around Washington and Lincoln Monuments, through Fourteenth-street to Fifth-avenue, to East Thirty-fourth-street, to Madison-avenue, to Twenty-third-street, to Fourth-avenue, and thence to Cooper Institute.

At the Cooper Union the exercises were as follows: Prayer, by Grand Chaplain Rev. John Peterson; Opening Ode, by the Order; Introductory Address, by P. N. F. Rev. H. H. Garnett; Music, Band; Oration, P. G. M. W. C. H. Curtis; Solo, Mme. T. A. P. Keebler. Addresses were also delivered by prominent members of the Order.

The celebration concluded with a grand concert at Adelphi Hall in the evening.

MONDAY, Oct. 14—P. M.

The week opens with a further improvement in confidence and in prices in the Wall-street markets. The demand for and speculation in Stocks take a wider range than at the close of last week, and the Bullish feeling on the Exchange is very strongly in the ascendant. On the other hand, the feeling in the Gold Room and in the Foreign Exchanges would seem to indicate easier advices from the London market, and the sales of Gold were, in the forenoon, at 112⅜@112⅜ ₱ cent., and of Bills on London 108⅜@108⅜, with transactions and offers in sight Bills a fraction below the closing rates of last week, which were 110½@110⅜ ₱ cent. There is a good supply of Bills, both Merchant and Bankers', and the prospect of shipping Gold by a further advance in the rates of Exchange seems remote.

Money is offered to the Stock Brokers today at 7@5 ₱ cent. The Canada Banks and some of the private lenders are ready to accept 5 ₱ cent., while the Bank rate continues 7 ₱ cent. The market is quoted easy on call loan, and there is more doing in the way of Discounts at Bank at 7 ₱ cent., and on the Street, on good paper, at 8@12 ₱ cent.

On the Stock Exchange, as noted above, the demand is more general over the list of the Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks, and prices were strong to the close of the Second Board of the Exchange. The Pacific Mail and Western Telegraph continued favorites, as on Saturday, at a further advance on Telegraph Stock, while the Lake Shore, Toledo and Wabash, Ohio and Mississippi, St. Paul, North-west, and (especially) Rock Island attracted attention at advancing figures, and New-York Central was again strong. A large business was done, as will be noticed from the official printed lists.

The Public Funds were steady, and the Railway Mortgages in moderate demand. The Southern State Bonds show some firmness.

After 2 o'clock to the close of business, at 4 P. M., the general speculation on the Exchange was active, and the following quotations were finally made, as compared with Saturday Afternoon:

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

TO INVESTORS.

To those who have funds to invest in large or small amounts, or who wish to increase their income from means already invested in other less profitable securities, we recommend, after full investigation, the Seven-Thirty Gold Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. Bearing seven and three-tenths per cent. gold interest, (equal now to 8¼ currency,) and sold at par, they yield an income considerably more than one-third greater than United States 5-20s. They are Coupon and Registered, the lowest denomination being $100, the highest $10,000.

Nearly one-third of the Main Line of the Road will be completed and in operation with a large business the present season. All the property and rights of the Company, including a most valuable Land Grant, averaging about 23,000 acres per mile of road, are pledged as security for the first mortgage bonds now offered.

All marketable stocks and bonds are received in exchange at current prices. Descriptive pamphlets and maps, showing Route of Road, Connections, Tributary Country, &c., will be furnished on application.

No. 5 NASSAU-ST.,
NEW-YORK, Sept. 18, 1872.

DEPOSITS received, on which we allow interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum. Special arrangements made with Savings Banks and others depositing large amounts.

We issue CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT, available in all parts of the country, and bearing interest in case of special deposit.

We make COLLECTIONS for merchants and others in all parts of the country.

Orders for INVESTMENT STOCKS and BONDS executed at the Stock Exchange, on commission, for cash.

We deal in GOVERNMENT and other FIRST-CLASS SECURITIES, such as CENTRAL PACIFIC and CHESAPEAKE and OHIO BONDS.

The small amount of CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO BONDS remaining in the hands of the Company will be disposed of by us at private sale, giving investors an opportunity to purchase this favorite security upon terms which should insure an advance upon the completion of the road and their introduction at the Stock Exchange.

WHOLESALE PRODUCE MARKET.

Our quotations are the wholesale prices paid for sound merchantable Produce in good clean packages.

BUTTER—The receipts have been 8,325 pks. for the past three days; and 18,804 pks. for the week. There has been a moderate trade reported in good to strictly prime grades of stock. Holders have been comparatively prompt and free in their offerings of other than the finest marks, which latter have not been plenty. Prices have shown but little variation. The inquiry has been mostly for home use, shippers evincing no disposition to operate with confidence at the ruling figures. The week's exports were 1,638 pks. The receipts of Butter since Jan. 1 have been 492,943 pks., against 503,000 pks. same time in 1871; exports, 3,534,479 lbs., against 5,351,293 lbs. same time in 1871. We quote:

Grease Butter, original pks.	7½@ 8½

CHEESE—The receipts during the past three days have been 19,337 boxes, and for the week, 33,227 boxes. The home trade inquiry keeps pace with the available supplies of suitable makes, and serves to maintain values in the absence of anything like an active call from export buyers, who are very reserved in their movements at present. The week's exports were 29,332 boxes. The receipts here since Jan. 1 have been 1,343,028 pks., against 1,183,000 same time in 1872; exports, 58,042,029 lbs., against 60,105,447 lbs. same time in 1871. We quote as follows:

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—EASTERN DISTRICT.
Before Judge Benedict.

A QUESTION OF PRACTICE.

Martin vs. Orsecerola.—In this case, recently heard and now decided on a question of practice Judge Benedict, in conformity with a previous decision of the Judge at Circuit in the Southern District holds that the fifth section of the act of June 1, 1872, which provides that "the practice, pleadings and forms and modes of proceeding in other than equity and admiralty causes in the Circuit and District Courts of the United States shall conform as near as may be to the practice, pleadings and forms and modes of proceedings existing at the time in like causes in the Courts of record of the State in which such Circuit or District Courts are held," does not authorize the commencement of an action in this Court by a summons issued in the name of the attorney for plaintiff, according to the mode of commencing actions in the Courts of the State of New-York.

Deputy Marshals and Supervisors of Election.

By direction of the United States Marshal, Gen. Sharpe, Commissioner Shields yesterday swore in about 200 special deputy marshals for service during the registration and election, to fill up the vacancies caused by the neglect of some of those previously commissioned.

Chief Supervisor Davenport expects to begin today issuing commissions to complete the list of Federal election supervisors.

PROPOSALS.

PROPOSALS FOR DIMENSION STONE REQUIRED IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE NEW GOVERNMENT BUILDING AT ST. LOUIS, MO.

OFFICE OF SUPERVISING ARCHITECT,
TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 21, 1872.

Sealed proposals will be received at this office until 12 o'clock M. of the 26th day of October, 1872, for furnishing and delivering at the site of the proposed Government building at St. Louis, Mo., all of the dimension required for the exterior of the building.

The species of stone from which a selection will be made will be confined to granite, marble and sandstones, and the qualities especially insisted upon will be uniformity of color and texture, durability, and the capacity for working under the chisel or hammer.

A sample block, 12x12x12 inches, showing on each face a different kind of cutting, and on one the natural fracture of the stone must be submitted with each bid.

No stone that has not been tested by actual use as cut stone in buildings for at least ten years will be considered, and absolute proof that it has been so used for that period must be furnished.

The stone must further have a good grain and be free from all discoloring substances, and the quarry from which it is procured must be fully opened and capable of furnishing the quality and quantity desired within one year.

About 400,000 cubic feet, more or less, will be required, the actual average of the stones cannot now be given, but will approximate forty feet, the largest stone containing about 200 cubic feet.

The stone will be ordered on a schedule of net sizes, in order that the contractor may make proper allowances for cutting in the quarrying, and on this schedule payment will be made allowing an addition of one inch to each face on granite and marble stock and of one-half inch to each cut face of sandstone.

Bidders will state how soon they can commence delivering the stone and the amount per week they can deliver; the stone and the amount per week they can deliver. They will also state the average and maximum size of the stones that can be obtained from their quarry.

No bids will be received except from the owners or lessees of the quarries from which the stone is proposed to be furnished, and a certificate from the Recorder of the County in which the quarry is situated that the bidder is the owner or lessee of the quarry must accompany the bid.

All proposals must be made on and in full accordance with the printed forms to be obtained on application at this office or from the Superintendent, Mr. Thomas Walsh, St. Louis, Mo., and must be accompanied by a penal bond in the sum of fifty thousand dollars, ($50,000) that the bidder will accept and perform the contract if awarded to him, and give bond therefor in the penal sum of one hundred thousand dollars, ($100,000) and a valid and binding lease of the quarry to the Government as security for the faithful performance of the contract, the lease to take effect upon the failure of the contractor to comply with the terms of the contract, said lease to authorize the Government to take full possession of the quarry and work it at the expense of the contractor in case of default.

The Department reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to divide the contract and use two or more kinds of stone.

Proposals must be inclosed in a sealed envelope, indorsed, "Proposals for dimension stone for the new Government building, St. Louis, Mo.," and addressed to A. B. MULLETT, Supervising Architect.

In another column will be found a succinct statement of the duties of registering officers under the new law. A perusal of these will save a good deal of trouble to voters not yet registered, and the sections referring to naturalized citizens should be carefully scanned by those whom they concern. Another opportunity for registration will be furnished to-morrow. Remember that you cannot vote in November unless you have been registered on one of the four days of October set aside for this purpose.

A trustworthy correspondent, entitled to speak on behalf of Gen. SCHENCK, authorizes us to state that the American Minister to England "denounces in gross and in detail the slander" with reference to his connection with the Oakes Ames bribery list. Gen. SCHENCK adds, in a note received from him by our correspondent: "Until I saw the libel copied in the New-York Tribune I did not even know that there was or had been such a scheme as the Credit Mobilier in America." As the gang of libelers who started the fictitious stock list on its journalistic travels have already reaped some of the bitter fruits of their copious falsehoods, it would be a waste of time to show how utterly they have failed to accomplish the designs of their authors.

People who undertake to provide the public of New York with opera during the season have more difficulties to contend with than is generally supposed. The jealousies of singers, or their patrons—and the patron may sometimes be a tyrant—the effects of climate and fatigue, and the demands of stockholders, are among these difficulties; but of late a new annoyance seems to have been added. A certain clique of persons "connected with the Press," and calling themselves "critics," undertake to dictate who shall sing, and what opera shall be performed. Nor is this the end of their demands, as we shall take an early occasion to show, when we intend to go pretty thoroughly into the whole subject. Thus far, this season, the two "clubs" which we believe represent this knot of "critics" have not been properly "conciliated"—consequently the opera is to be "smashed." Fiat!—The Bohemian clubs have given the order, and the thing must be done. Last night the Express published a scandalous series of libels concerning the domestic life of Mme. LUCCA. This work is to go on throughout the season, and the "chivalry" of our critics is to be set forth in the coinage of base slanders against a lady of the highest talents and the most spotless private life. That such conduct is most disgraceful to the Press is of little consequence to the "strikers" who practice it, but we take leave to tell them that they need not expect to get off scot free in the first place, and in the next place, that the public will not be misled by the outrageous system they have introduced. Any conspiracy of this kind will be quickly resented by the public at large, which will insist on strangers, who come to exercise their art among us, receiving fair play. We know very well that "fair play" are unmeaning words to some of our dear journalistic brethren, but when they try to ruin reputations in order to wreak a spite, or for even baser motives, they will assuredly bring themselves to grief. In the meantime, let us hope that they will be contented with attacking Mme. LUCCA about her "method" of singing, concerning which they are about as competent to speak as so many pigs in a sty, and leave her private life—which is that of a most honorable lady—unsullied by their shameless pens.

Mr. BARTLETT seems to have hit upon the wrong tactics in trying to squeeze out of the Grand Jury that indicted TWEED some evidence of technical irregularity sufficient to help his client. He has at last hit upon the wrong man in applying his legal forceps to Dr. COMSTOCK. His note has elicited from the late foreman of the historical Grand Jury of the Court of Sessions, such a reply as may be felt as stinging even by Mr. BARTLETT.

With some bluster in "Mine Ancient Pistol's" vein, the Tribune contradicts, as "authorized by Mr. GREELEY," certain statements touching the connection of the defunct candidate with the assignment of public printing by the Thirty-fourth Congress. After its little feat of bullying the Poughkeepsie Eagle, perhaps the organ can pluck up courage enough to state on behalf of Mr. GREELEY all about those shares in the Tweed Tobacco concern, as also to shed some light on that old-time mystery about what Mr. GREELEY did with the $1,000 he got from Mr. STRYKER to influence Congressional legislation on behalf of the Des Moines Navigation Company.

The Advice, Opinions and Sorrows of Augustus Schell.

Mr. AUGUSTUS SCHELL is the spokesman of what remains of the "National Democracy;" and we are far from saying that he is an unworthy representative of it. The shrewdness of his judgment on political events is illustrated in his letter to his "dear HICKS," in which he assured the said HICKS that Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana would all give enormous majorities in October for the Democratic candidates and GREELEY. The result of that prediction might have taught some men that it was barely possible they were fallible, but AUGUSTUS SCHELL's opinion of his gigantic influence with the country is not to be changed by a popular vote or two. He has, like GREELEY's dummy, taken "a fresh look at the tables," and feels confident that his candidate is on the "homestretch." Consequently, he favors the benighted public with another letter of advice and counsel, described by the Professor as an "admirable address," marked by "high courage and wisdom," a "rallying cry," a "note of recall"—a blast from the bugle horn of freedom, which we must all obey if we do not wish to be ground under the heel of the tyrant. When an ancient man addresses the country, the least that we can do is to give him a respectful hearing. When AUGUSTUS SCHELL writes the history of the decline and fall, let him not have to say that we turned a deaf ear to the warnings which he was inspired to deliver.

What, then, is the message delivered by the Prophet SCHELL? Like other prophets who have preceded him, he speaks in the tones of wrath and reproach. First of all he tells us that the "October elections are over"—a fact which we humbly think we might possibly have discovered without the gracious interposition of a second Daniel. Georgia, he says, has gone for GREELEY, and thus secured 125 votes in the Electoral College for the "biggest head in America." Most people labor under the delusion that Georgia carries only eleven votes in the Electoral College, but Mr. SCHELL knows better. He says the number is 125, and this leaves only "sixty votes to elect GREELEY and BROWN." In Ohio, he tells us, there have been "most unprecedented gains for the Liberal-Democratic ticket." Unprecedented any gains would have been, for a Liberal-Democratic ticket had never before been submitted to the wondering gaze of the people. The thing itself was unprecedented. When Mr. SCHELL does not absolutely construct history out of his imagination, he seems to have a slight weakness for dealing in truisms. He repeats the political gibberish which he has been in the habit of hearing for the last half century, and varies it occasionally with a trick which he has probably learned from the political sharpers of Tammany Hall—namely, the substitution of falsehood for truth, as when he telegraphed to Indiana, last week, that the TIMES had formally given up that State and Pennsylvania and Ohio to the Democrats. When AUGUSTUS SCHELL sent that message, he knew that he was signing his name to a fraud—just as if he had signed a forged note, or any other document intended to cheat anybody who was foolish enough to suppose that the name of AUGUSTUS SCHELL was a guarantee of good faith. A man who was guilty of an act of this kind in private transactions, would be denounced as a swindler—but AUGUSTUS SCHELL only did it "in politics," and, therefore, he doubtless contends that it was quite honorable and fair. Nevertheless, we imagine that people who do not know him will be very careful how they take his word for anything in future. To people who do know him, the caution is superfluous.

Now, what is the opinion which Mr. SCHELL has formed of the state of the country? It concerns us much to know it, and we regret to say that it is very unfavorable. We are on the brink of ruin; our liberties are in danger; chains and slavery await us; and there is but one thing that can save us, and that is strict obedience to the advice of SCHELL. The election in Pennsylvania, our prophet describes, as "the most appalling political catastrophe that has ever taken place in this country"—the rebellion was nothing to it. SCHELL and his party looked upon the rebellion undismayed—but his hair bristles with horror when he thinks of the election last week. SCHELL cried aloud in the streets and no man regarded him. He predicted 25,000 majority for BUCKALEW. And yet the Pennsylvanians were impious enough to elect HARTRANFT. What is the use of SCHELLS in the world if they are to be treated like this? He groans aloud in his anguish over the perversity of the people. Reform and Tammany Hall—GREELEY and SCHELL—that is our only salvation. And yet here are people actually rejecting GREELEY and laughing at SCHELL, and the lightning does not strike them. No wonder that SCHELL thinks the whole affair "appalling." Should this blasphemy go on, he cries, "it seals the doom of freedom in America." So agonized is he that he forgets that such a thing as a comma was ever invented, and he says: "A sad contrast it is sure*ly* that the city in which our Republic was born amid the anthems of a free people should now be the first to toll the knell of its liberties." How the salt tears of A. SCHELL, Esq., must have rained into his grog as he penned this pathetic lament! But presently he rallies a little and tells us to "calmy (sic) review the fearful crime against suffrage in Pennsylvania." But it is only the "unbought people" whom SCHELL advises to take this "calmy review." We will be as calmy as we can, but we confess that SCHELL's dismal wailings are enough to make one's blood curdle in one's viens. What a very useful article AUGUSTUS SCHELL must be in a nursery when all the children are crying. There would be no need to invoke the aid of bogey when his fearful lamentations filled the air.

Observe this—what wrings the withers of of the too susceptible SCHELL, is the tampering with the ballot-box which went on, as he was told in a nightmare, in Pennsylvania. SCHELL never heard of that crime before—and yet he has been in the Tammany secrets for years past, and is now head of the body. Touch the ballot-box! cries SCHELL with dismay—he cannot believe that men are so horribly depraved. We must, he says, "catch inspiration" (from SCHELL) now, and "struggle for liberty and an untainted ballot-box"—the only things on earth which are dear to a Tammany Sachem. What his "table" and looking-glass are to the Professor, an "untainted" ballot-box is to the gloomy SCHELL. He never heard of frauds in New-York—of course he never took part in any. He would not "taint" the ballot-box next November if he could. He is a Tammany chief—therefore the very soul of honor. He is capable of signing his name to a deliberate untruth, but that is only a "political artifice." He knows right from wrong when an election is not going on. We trust, then, that the people will check the natural tendency to levity which the manifestoes of this Tammany Sachem naturally excite. We may not have SCHELL always with us. He is but mortal, like the rest of us, although you would never think so to read his "admirable addresses." Let us spare ourselves the remorse of bringing down his very few gray hairs in sorrow to the grave.

Another Tribune Slander Refuted.

On Saturday, the New-York Tribune made the following charges against Attorney-General BARLOW: 1. He took a fee of $10,000 for doing his official duty in conducting a prosecution on behalf of the People of the State against the old Board of Erie Directors. 2. That he earned the money in an "illegitimate, unprofessional, and possibly corrupt" manner. It would be very easy to show how ridiculously insufficient is the evidence published by the Tribune itself to justify the series of slanders which are deduced from it. Still more apparent is the facility with which the Tribune could have ascertained the true facts of the case, had its profession of regard for Gen. BARLOW and concern for his good name been anything more than a hypocritical pretense. Such characteristics have become too much a matter of course, in the attacks made by Mr. GREELEY's organ on the reputation of public men, to repay the trouble of fully exposing them in this parparticular instance. They will probably be perceived with sufficient clearness by every reader of the communication from Gen. BARLOW, published with accompanying correspondence, in another column.

The story told by that correspondence is, briefly, that Gen. BARLOW took no professional fee for doing his official duty, and that the money which passed through his hands was spent on behalf of the Erie stockholders in a perfectly legitimate and straightforward manner. More in detail, the history of the transaction is this: After Mr. BARLOW's election as Attorney-General, he was applied to by accredited agents of the Erie stockholders represented by HEATH & RAPHAEL, and those represented by BISCHOFFSHEIM & GOLDSCHMIDT, to bring an action which could only be done in the name of the people of the State, and by their chief prosecuting officer, to oust the Gould and Lane Board of Erie Directors. While fully concurring in the justice of this proposed attempt to remove a great public scandal, Gen. BARLOW rightly assumed that the State Treasury would decline to bear the expenses of such a litigation. The Erie stockholders, acting through their representatives, were perfectly willing to bear the necessary expense. As it was absolutely necessary that the litigation should be absolutely controlled by the Attorney-General, it was, of course, essential that the counsel should be retained and paid for through him. Twelve thousand dollars were placed in his hands, of which he expended $8,692 81, as per details elsewhere given, and returned to its owners the balance of $3,307 19. Gen. BARLOW was repeatedly and urgently pressed to accept a fee for his own services in the matter. This he steadfastly declined to do, though there was nothing, in the letter of the law, at least, to prevent him from taking it.

On the fact that Hon. HENRY SMITH, of Albany, received a retaining fee of $1,500 in this Erie suit, the Tribune bases the further charge that Attorney-General BARLOW was the agent through whom money was disbursed for influencing the Legislature. Mr. BARLOW's letter shows very conclusively that the reasons for which the co-operation of Mr. SMITH was desired grew out of his intimate acquaintance with the Ramsey suits against FISK and GOULD, and from the ability which Mr. SMITH had displayed in the Albany and Susquehanna litigations. His selection as associate counsel was made before his election as Speaker was considered a probable event, and, so far from the Anti-Gould legislation which was being pushed for at Albany being likely to appeal to the self-interest of the Speaker, his hope of gain as a lawyer depended entirely on the defeat of the legislation which, as a high-toned public servant, he felt bound to support.

All that the Tribune has gained, therefore, from this mean and malicious attack, is to show that both Attorney-General BARLOW and Speaker SMITH are habitually controlled by higher motives and purer rules of conduct than are either understood or appreciated among the journalistic pupils of Senator FENTON. If there was left to Mr. GREELEY's organ the slightest possibility of blackening the character of any one, this addition to its long and disgraceful score of disproved slanders would effectually remove that possibility. The present managers of the Tribune have, however, sunk too low in the estimation of all decent people to render their good or bad opinion of the remotest consequence to anybody.

Why Georgia?

Mr. AUGUSTUS SCHELL has chosen a curious watchword with which to rally the professed followers of "Reconciliation and Reform." It is "Georgia." "In Georgia," he cries, "we have to recount a victory for the Liberal ticket so unexampled as to take her out of the list of doubtful States, and practically to pronounce in advance the decision of at least 125 votes in the Electoral College." We have enough respect for Mr. SCHELL's sagacity to think that he would not have called public attention to the Georgia election, as a harbinger of Democratic success, if there had been anything else to bring forward. Nothing could be more unfortunate for the Democratic Party, than to have the country fully realize that in Georgia its policy was fully illustrated. If there were the ghost of a chance of the Democrats succeeding anywhere, it would be only by the use of the same cruel, lawless, unjustifiable methods; if success once came to them, they would be sure to employ it, where occasion offered, with the same ferocious hatred of the colored race, with the same violent rebellion against the principles established by the war, as in Georgia.

We have heard a great deal, during the last few weeks, from the Democratic candidate, about the beautiful and touching manner in which all that the country required of the South had been conceded. Georgia shows how much truth there is in this assertion. The country requires, above all things, that the rights of all citizens shall be equal and equally respected. In Georgia, on the very first occasion offered, the Democrats not only seek to impede the exercise of the right of suffrage by the negroes, but they do so in the most systematic and determined, not to say brutal manner. We know perfectly well that there are a great proportion of the Southern people who have accepted the situation in good faith; but in Georgia they are not numerous enough, or energetic enough to control the Kuklux element. On the contrary, the Kuklux element is in undisputed possession of the Democratic organization in that State, and it is from their proceedings that Mr. SCHELL asks the Democracy generally to take heart. It is with precisely this class that the new party of "reconciliation and reform" has made the most intimate alliance. What the Georgia Democracy is now, the new party would be everywhere in the South, if it once gained power. The States whose 125 electoral votes Mr. SCHELL boasts have been decided by Georgia, would be no safer for their colored citizens, if his boasts were true and his predictions of Democratic triumph were to be realized, than Georgia itself is.

This is the feast the country is invited to, by the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He asks us to abandon the safeguards we have set up, at such cost, and with so much labor, about the civil and political rights of American citizens, and return to the good old rule of the pistol, the bowie-knife and the bludgeon. The people of the United States have decided, and embodied their decision in the most solemn constitutional form, that wherever the Constitution of the United States extends, it shall carry perfect equality before the law. The Georgia Democrats say, No, in our State the white man must rule, and if the negro undertakes to contest that right at the ballot-box, fraud and violence shall repel or nullify his action. And Mr. SCHELL gloats over the spectacle, and calls it an "unexampled victory" for his party. It is not unexampled. We have seen such victories won for the same party by the same means, many times since 1865. One of them was the occasion of PHIL. SHERIDAN's "setting up his little battle flag in New-Orleans," and protecting the liberty of the colored people by the same arms that had wrested it from the rebels. Mr. GREELEY, when he had no motive for concealing the truth, used to expose this kind of victories in the Southern States. But they have been becoming beautifully less since Gen. GRANT undertook to enforce the laws of Congress for giving effect to the Fourteenth Amendment. It was only the desperate hope, inspired by Mr. GREELEY's defection, of gaining a national administration favorable to them, that induced the Georgia Democrats to revive the old system.

What effect their recent conduct will have and is having on public opinion, they have already had ample opportunity to find out. The October elections, which ranged the three great States of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana on the Republican side in the Presidential contest, are the answer of the country to the Georgia experiment. Mr. SCHELL undoubtedly knows well enough that the answer in November will be still more emphatic, will, indeed, be crushing. The country is in no mood now to trifle with the party that deliberately undertakes to overturn the results of the war, and reestablish the hateful and ruinous rule of caste.

Gen. Dix and Reform.

There is no subject on which Messrs. TRUMBULL & Co., in the United States Senate, were more eloquent than that of the interference of members of Congress with appointments; and we believe they introduced into that body a bill prohibiting all such interference on the part of members.

We are happy to inform Senator FENTON and his Greeleyite coadjutors that they can carry out in this State the policy of their leaders in the Senate by voting for the Republican candidate for Governor.

In 1860, while Gen. DIX was Postmaster, a Democratic member of Congress, now prominent in the Liberal Republican ranks, wrote to him complaining that he had appointed a clerk in the Post-office in his (the member's) district, without consulting him.

The General was himself a Democrat; but conceiving that the power of appointment was not to be surrendered to members of Congress, and that he was bound in duty to the public interest to select the best men for subordinate places, he met the member's assumption with the following spirited answer. We commend it to the consideration of the Greeleyite reformers:

POST OFFICE, NEW-YORK, Aug. 6, 1860.

MY DEAR SIR: I received your note of the 2d inst., three days ago, but have been too busy to reply to it. I do not like the tone in which it is written. It looks as though you supposed this office was to be administered for the benefit of individuals, and not of the public. You object to gentlemen in your Congressional District having the designation of appointments, as if it had been done already. I know no gentleman in or out of your district, or any other district, who has had, or is to have, the designation of any appointment in this office. I intend to designate appointments myself, and to make them for the best good of the public service. If you recommend a man to me for an appointment in your district, or out of it, your recommendation will be treated with the respect due to you, not only as a prominent citizen, but as one with whom my intercourse has always been of the most agreeable and friendly nature. If the man you recommend is better qualified, in my opinion, than any other candidate, I shall appoint him. But if a better man is named by some other person, even though it be a person to whom I am entirely indifferent, I shall certainly deem it my duty to give his nominee the preference. I think any other principle of action would be unjust to the Government and discreditable to myself. I regard the practice which has grown up in some branches of the public service, of appointing persons to employments for the purpose of aiding candidates for Congress, for the Common Council, and other official positions, as one of the grossest abuses under the Government, and I think the developments which have been made in regard to it, have done quite as much as anything else to impair the confidence of the community in public men, and to reduce the Democratic Party to its present unhopeful condition. I do not know whether it is impossible, in the present state of things, to carry out the opposite principle of administering office for the good of the public; but I intend to try it on a small scale. I fear the public mind is more indifferent to the practice referred to than it should be; but the time will come (though I may not live to see it) when the American people will rise up in mass and rebuke all this selfishness by calling for men who have the disinterestedness, the independence and the courage to do what they think right.

Now, my dear Sir, don't think that I intend to read you a lecture. I only wish, as the Yankees say, "to give you a piece of my mind"—not in unkindness, but in the frankness of the friendship with which I am sincerely yours,

JOHN A. DIX.

Hon. ——— ———.

Disfranchisement and Local Self-Government.

Mr. GREELEY and his organ make a great ado about twenty thousand citizens of Arkansas, who are alleged to be disfranchised, and the errant candidate always cites this assumed fact as an instance of the state of things to which his election would put a stop. His continual reference to this one matter in his speeches is, in our opinion, a piece of petty trickery to which a Presidential candidate cannot resort without loss of dignity and character. It is not in any sense an "instance" of anything, because it is an isolated fact, without another like it in the whole Union. Mr. GREELEY has frequently employed it as an illustration, but it illustrates nothing except the distinguished orator's unfairness, and his urgent need of what is called political capital.

It is true that a certain portion of the citizens of Arkansas have not yet regained the privilege of suffrage forfeited by their rebellious acts. But that privilege is withheld from them, not by the Constitution of the United States, nor by any act of Congress, nor by the will of President GRANT, but by the Constitution of the State. Mr. GREELEY might as well say that the disfranchisement of State Prison convicts in New-York, or of men who cannot read in Massachusetts, or of men who have not paid their poll-tax in other States, is an instance of the "Policy of Hate" on the part of the Republicans. All these instances of disfranchisement, like that in Arkansas, tell heavily against Mr. GREELEY's new party, but the National Government has no more to do with one than with the others. It is true, also, that there is a difference of opinion as to the scope of the disfranchising clause in the Arkansas Constitution, and Mr. GREELEY seems to promise that he will decide that difference in favor of the Democrats if he is elected. But by what authority, and how?

We have had the doctrine of "local self-government" dinned into our ears for five months now, as the one tangible principle of the new coalition. According to Mr. GREELEY, it is to be construed very much as the farmer in the fable construed the law of meum et tuum in the celebrated case of the ox and the bull. If a State constitution, which, we take it, is as respectable an embodiment of local self-government as can be found, leaves a State in the hands of Republicans, we must elect Mr. GREELEY to construe it so as to take the State out of their hands. If the same doctrine leaves a State in the hands of the Kuklux, as in Georgia, we must elect Mr. GREELEY to prevent any Federal interference. This charmingly elastic theory is nicely adapted to a man of Mr. GREELEY's changeable notions, but it hardly commends itself to the sober common sense of the people of this country in pursuit of a stable and intelligible principle of government.

But, we shall be told, the party that construes the Arkansas Constitution against the original secessionists whom it disfranchises, is sustained by Federal patronage. If that changed hands the other party would come into power, and this construction would be reversed. That may be so, or it may not. The voters who we asked to believe it, will be very likely to ask: "What if it is the case? Suppose in one State the Federal 'patronage,'" as Mr. GREELEY likes to call it, "keeps a party in power opposed to withdrawing rebel disabilities; are we, then, to change the National Administration to turn that party out of power in Arkansas? We know that no other instance exists. We know the Republican Party, intrusted with the National Government, have restored the privileges of the lately rebellious classes with marvelous magnanimity, and quite as fast as the sentiment or interest of the country demanded. What men hold the Federal offices in Arkansas is not a matter of supreme importance to us, and we shall not readily count the countless ills with which Greeleyism threatens in order to get those offices given to Arkansas Democrats." Since the October elections, Mr. GREELEY seems to feel that this is the tone in which the people receive his absurd and insincere rhodomontade about the twenty thousand Arkansas secessionists. His last allusion to them, in one of his Baltimore speeches, was accompanied by the cheerful statement that if the country was not yet ready for his ideas, he "could wait." We are glad he can. He will certainly have to wait. Meantime, he can profitably devote some of his leisure to the study of the folly of trying to mislead the people on great issues by the perversion of insignificant and irrelevant facts.

MINOR TOPICS.

It is surprising how much amusing reading can be found in Greeley papers not less than a week old. Here, for example, is a choice morsel from the World of Oct. 6:

> "The 'jig's up' with our friend GRANT in Pennsylvania. His State Committee there bawls fraud and the TIMES trots out the ever-bleeding Southern black. These dramatic incidents are never brought to the front until defeat stares Radicalism in the face. BUCKALEW is as good as his Excellency the Governor of Pennsylvania, and the only question now is as to the majority with which he goes in."

That question about the majority was rather more a vital one than the World supposed.

Mr. ROBERT DALE OWEN has contracted with the Atlantic Monthly to publish his autobiography, in monthly chapters, beginning with the number for January. The work will be very comprehensive in scope, and likely to prove interesting to a large class of readers, whether they do or do not agree with the author's views on "Spiritualism." Mr. OWEN's personal recollections extend back as far as GODWIN, author of Political Justice and husband of MARY WOLSTONECRAFT; Mrs. SHELLEY, Lady BYRON and her mother, Lord BROUGHAM, JEREMY BENTHAM, THOMAS CLARKSON, SPURZHEIM, Gen. LAFAYETTE, Sir ROWLAND HILL, Miss LANDON, &c., &c. The grandfather was a partner with Sir RICHARD ARKWRIGHT in the very earliest cotton-spinning, and the character, life, and humanitarian experiments of his father, ROBERT OWEN, of Lanark, are, of course, well known to the son. Books such as we understand Mr. OWEN's to be, and of which FOSTER's Lander and HENRY CRABBE ROBINSON's Autobiography form late examples, are always read with interest, and there are good reasons why the forthcoming work should prove no exception to the rule.

Everybody will be glad to know that the beautiful cathedral of Strasbourg is to be restored. The cross which towers above the whole, so far into the skies, has already been replaced—a task of singular peril and delicacy. All the repairs, according to the estimate of Herr KLOTZ, the architect, can be done for a sum of $125,000, gold. There are over 1,200 panes of glass to be put in, and much masonry to be rebuilt. It is now said that the famous astronomical clock is really uninjured, and that it only wants cleaning; after which the twelve apostles will once more march forth, in procession, whenever the clock strikes twelve. There is one point on which report is silent, and yet it is one which, to the organist and those likely to be near his instrument, must be of some little consequence. This is the situation and present condition of the celebrated shell which dashed through the great window, and buried itself in the organ without exploding. Now whether, when the organ comes to be played on, the shell may not burst by way of revenging itself for being disturbed, or whether it may not fall from the spot where it has lodged and so explode by reason of the concussion, is certainly a matter of considerable interest to those immediately concerned, and will warrant some solicitude on their part to have the missile carefully looked for in advance. It would be a tremendous, but by no means agreeable, termination to a Te Deum to have the big organ blown into flinders, while everybody about shared in the wide-spread risk and destruction thus entailed.

Reports of "interviews" with men of note make "spicy" reading, no doubt, but when, as with some enterprising journals, such reports are almost purely fabulous, their interest is naturally somewhat abated. One of the interviewing tribe professed just now to have thus bored Mr. JAMES ANTHONY FROUDE, and spreads over the congenial pages of the Sun a lot of rubbish as the fruit thereof. In the course of the talk Mr. FROUDE is described as making allusion to an American writer, Mr. BRET HARTE, and as dwelling on the fact that he had not seen Mr. HARTE during that gentleman's sojourn in London. Perhaps the trifling circumstance that Mr. HARTE has never made any sojourn in London may be accounted of as little moment by the "interviewers" and the lovers of the stuff they manufacture. To those, however, with whom truth in a newspaper is of any worth, the incident will be suggestive and significant. Surely this kind of childish clap-trap, this elaborate weaving of lies and twaddle by way of catching the public eye, must sooner or later provoke general contempt rather than attention. Hardly an account of the sort appears that is not crammed with misrepresentations of which the above is a fair type.

A frightfully literal instance of the "engineer" being "hoist with his own petard," has just occurred in the Faubourg St. Antoine. One SYLVAIN DURIEUX has long been pondering over a murderous machine, by which he hoped to avenge France, and render himself immortal. The latter he has done—in one sense—if not the former. It appears that he had spent all he had in the world in perfecting his engine, which, however, obstinately refused to be perfected. At last he became wild with repeated failures, and his friends were thinking of putting him in confinement. This step, unhappily, was delayed too long. On the 21st of September, DURIEUX was left at home, working as usual at his "Vengeur." He arrayed on a table in front of it a great number of the tiny leaden soldiers used as toys by children, and on these he trained his instrument of death. The latter he crammed with missiles, to be propelled by a new detonating compound, likewise of his own make. How the catastrophe was brought about is matter of conjecture solely. What is known is that there was a terrific explosion, which shook the entire neighborhood; that people rushed in with hot haste, and were met and enveloped by a thick cloud of brown, mephitic smoke; and that in the room, the scene of his experiments, the luckless inventor was found "lying in fragments," with his "Vengeur" reduced to the same condition. Thus the world is spared this time a new weapon of slaughter, and the Prussians escape, so far as it is concerned, atonement for Gravelotte and Sedan.

A story comes from France which illustrates for the hundredth time the great danger incurred by people who, through affection or the dread of drawing public attention to the most terrible of family taints, neglect to put their lunatic kindred under adequate restraint. A member of a highly respectable family became so seriously affected by mental disease that his relations felt that he could no longer remain with them, but, unfortunately, instead of placing him in an asylum, sent him to a country-house belonging to a member of the family, who, however, did not reside there, and put him under the surveillance of a trustworthy female nurse and a gardener. One afternoon, when the gardener had gone to the village, the madman summoned the house-maid, and broke to her the cheerful news that he was prepared to put an end to both their lives. With the view of ridding death of its sting, he said he could contrive it so as to be perfectly painless, and that he should kill himself immediately after he had dispatched her. The poor woman entirely lost her presence of mind, and, casting herself at his feet, implored his mercy; but in vain. When, in a few minutes, he advanced, with hand upraised, she, in despair, bounded to the balcony, and, throwing herself off it, landed fainting below, her fall being broken, and consequently her life saved, by clusters of bushes. When the gardener came home, the unhappy man was hanging to the balusters.

The Hoosac Tunnel contractors have at length discovered an explosive, the handling of which will not cause instant death to miners. An idea of its safety, compared with similar agents that have hitherto been used with such fatal consequences, may be formed from the fact that it requires three revolutions of an electrical machine to discharge it, whereas most of the others could be discharged with half a revolution. Since the boring of this tunnel was commenced, many lives have been lost through a failure to procure an explosive that might be carried from place to place without being a cause of continual apprehension to the men employing it. No matter how great and useful an undertaking may be, it is always unpleasant to be reminded that it has been accomplished at the expense of much human life. The assurance that the remainder of the work of the Hoosac Tunnel is likely to be done without further sacrifices is, therefore, encouraging.

A NEW WAY OF BULLYING A GRAND JURY.

Willard Bartlett, of Dana's Sun, Undertakes to Call a Grand Jury to Account, and Gets Snubbed for His Pains—Is Dana in the Background?

The following correspondence has been forwarded to us for publication:

NEW-YORK, Oct. 10, 1872.

SIR—It is reliably ascertained that you are in possession of important information as to irregularities in the action of the so-called Grand Jury of the Court of General Sessions for this County, sitting in the months of November, December, January and February last, in passing upon certain pretended complaints to that body against Mr. William M. Tweed, and in ultimately presenting alleged indictments against him. In the judgment of counsel, duty to him demands that these irregularities should be presented to the appropriate Courts, to the end that such relief against the conduct of this body can be obtained as is required by a due regard for his rights and a becoming consideration for public justice.

To exhibit these irregularities in legal shape, the written deposition of parties in any way or to any extent connected with them must be had, and it is therefore necessary that we should ask an affidavit from you, covering such matters as you may be able to state in this behalf.

I hereby respectfully solicit from you such an affidavit, which I am ready to draw at such time and place as may suit your convenience on being apprised by you of these particulars. Will you please send a written communication to my office (No. 43 Pine-street, New-York City) on or before Saturday, the 12th inst., to my address, stating whether you are willing to comply with this request, and if so, designating the time and place. If I do not hear from you as requested, you will be considered as refusing to make a voluntary affidavit in the premises, and no other course will be left but to apply to the proper Courts to obtain your testimony. Yours respectfully,

WILLARD BARTLETT,
Attorney for Defendant.

To LUCIUS S. COMSTOCK, Esq.

Mr. Comstock's Reply.

SIR: I hope I shall be excused for not answering your letter of the 10th inst. within the time prescribed by you, and for now replying through the Press, where I see it has appeared without any knowledge or agency of mine.

You call on me as foreman of the Grand Jury that indicted Wm. M. Tweed to make a voluntary affidavit showing irregularities in the proceedings of the Grand Inquest sufficient to upset the indictment. Less than this would not serve your purposes. As Tweed is known to have had the largest share of the twenty millions stolen from the Treasury of this City, you must either think him entitled to our sympathy and aid in escaping by technicalities from the consequences, or that the terrors of the Courts to which you threaten to apply, or the hope of a bribe proportionate to the amount stolen, will procure the required affidavit.

In either aspect I deem the demand an insult, that every gentleman associated with me on that Jury will resent.

LUCIUS S. COMSTOCK, late Foreman, &c.

To Willard Bartlett, Esq., counsel for Wm. M. Tweed.

J.; Firemen's and Union, of San Francisco; National, of Bangor, Me.; Tradesmen's of New-York, and Merchants' and Narragansett, of Providence.

GEN. BARLOW AND ERIE.

A Silly Slander Disproved—How Tribune Falsehoods are Manufactured—Another Sample of Journalism According to Fenton's Professor.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In answer to some recent criticisms upon my official action, I request that you will publish the following correspondence:

No. 21 Park-row, New-York, Aug. 16, 1872.

To the Board of Directors of the Erie Railway Company:

Gentlemen: I have just been told that the books of your Company contain entries of certain sums paid to me—$10,000 on April 6, 1872, and $2,000 on April 15. These items are in the account of Gen. Sickles with the road, as I am informed.

These entries give a false impression, which I hasten to correct.

In December last, I was applied to by Messrs. Evarts, Southmayd & Swan, representing the Heath & Raphael stockholders, and afterward by Gen. Sickles, representing Messrs. Bischoffsheim & Goldschmidt, to bring an action to oust the then directors of the Erie Railway Company, which action could only be brought by the Attorney-General.

Believing that irregularities and mismanagement existing, I gave my consent to the bringing of the suit.

This litigation, of course, would require the employment of numerous counsel, and involve great expense. I told the gentlemen who applied to me that the stockholders whom they represented must bear these expenses. They should not fall upon the State, as it was really a matter of private, and not of public interest, and there was no appropriation for litigations of such magnitude. I further stated that I would give such personal assistance as the other duties of my office permitted, and that I must direct and absolutely control the litigation; that the counsel must be employed by me and paid through me, so that they would consider themselves as the counsel for the people, and not as the counsel of the one or the other of the two rival interests represented by Mr. Swan and Gen. Sickles.

All this was, of course, assented to. It soon became evident that some legislation was needed to render the suits effectual, and I gave what assistance I could to procure this, and at the same time the contest for the repeal of the Classification act was going on.

For the purpose of paying counsel as above stated, Gen. Sickles placed in my hands the following sums of money:

Jan. 1, 1872	$8,500
Jan. 4,	1,500
March 9,	2,000
	$12,000

This money I paid out entirely in the retaining of counsel and some other incidental expenses:

I paid Mr. Hale	$3,500
I paid Mr. Tremain	3.000
And some minor retainers and expenses	2.192 81
	$8,692 81

This left a balance of $3,307 19, which, after the close of the campaign, and on April 13, 1872, I paid to Gen. Sickles, and thus closed the account.

From no one whomsoever have I, directly or indirectly, received one penny for my services as Attorney-General, nor ever one penny from either the Erie Railroad Company or Gen. Sickles, or any of the stockholders of the road, for any purpose whatsoever, except as above stated.

The liberal offers of compensation made by the gentlemen above named I declined, for the reason that I did not think it proper for the Attorney-General to receive any compensation from private persons for his official action.

I would not trouble you in this matter were it not that these entries on your books have already given rise to accusations that I have been retained by the Erie Railway Company, and the lapse of time may render it difficult to explain the matter as clearly as it can be explained now.

I shall feel greatly obliged if you will cause an entry to be made (in place of those above referred to) to the effect that these amounts were paid to the Attorney-General for payment of counsel retained by him, and incidental expenses of the litigation to remove certain directors of the road; or, better still, that they were made to Gen. Sickles for these purposes, as I never dealt with the road at all. All my payments were made by check, and I shall be glad to show to any person deputed by yourselves, the vouchers showing the disbursements of the money referred to.

I also request that this letter be preserved among the papers of the Company.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS C. BARLOW,
Attorney-General.

Of the $2,192 81 above spoken of as expended in minor retainers and expenses, $1,500 was paid to Hon. Henry Smith, and $500 to Mr. John H. McFarland, as counsel fees. The balance was spent for telegrams, printing, and the like. The only money which I ever received in these matters was this $12,000, being the same sums that appear on the books of the Erie Railway Company.

To this letter I received the following answer:

Erie Railway Company,
President's Office.
New-York, Oct. 10, 1872.

Hon. Francis C. Barlow, Attorney-General, New-York:

Dear Sir: I beg to inform you that your letter of Aug. 16, to the Board of Directors of the Erie Railway Company, has been spread upon the minutes of the Board. Marginal notes have also been made in the Company's books of account, opposite the entries mentioned in your communication. Very truly yours,
P. H. WATSON, President.

This correspondence explains the charge that I have received compensation from private persons for the discharge of my official duties. Compensation was likewise offered me for my services in legislative matters, on the ground that I was not there acting officially. This, however, I equally declined to receive. The foregoing letters also show whether I rendered services of an "illegitimate," "unprofessional" and "corrupt" character, and whether I was "an agent through whom money was disbursed for influencing the Legislature." The only legislative measures which I advocated were the bill repealing the Classification act, and the bill called the "Attorney-General's bill," modifying the legislation which Messrs. Fisk, Gould & Co. procured in 1870 for their own protection. Both these measures had the support of public opinion, and were strongly commended by the New-York Tribune.

The means which I used were the employment of respectable counsel to advocate the bills before Legislative Committees, and the giving my own services without compensation. Vigorous preparation was made during the whole Winter for the prosecution of the legal proceedings, (which had originally been our main reliance,) but the actual beginning of the suit was retarded by the delay in passing the "Attorney-General's bill" and the great labor of collecting the facts relating to fraudulent contracts, &c., necessary to be alleged in the complaint. Gen. Sharpe was retained to make a thorough examination and collection of these facts, and the sums paid to him by Gen. Sickles were for such services and expenses. The suit became unnecessary, because the directors were removed by other means.

The remaining charge is that I paid money to Hon. Henry Smith to secure his support of the Erie Railroad bills. In December, before Mr. Smith was chosen Speaker, the question arose as to what counsel should be retained. Messrs. Tremain, Smith and Hale were selected for the following reasons: In the severe litigations of a similar character which Mr. Ramsey had had with Fisk and Gould some two years before, these gentlemen had been his counsel. They were familiar, from actual experience, with the whole subject matter, and in the Albany and Susquehanna litigation, Mr. Smith had proved himself a most determined and efficient combatanr. They were the most natural and proper counsel for this service.

The determination to retain them was made in December, and had no reference to the Speakership of Mr. Smith, (that fact not then being prominent,) nor to his being a member of the Legislature. Though at that time we had in view the repeal of the Classification act, (the necessity of other legislation was not then thought of,) yet our main reliance was on the Courts, and legal, rather than legislative, proceedings. The employment of Mr. Smith was solely in reference to the former. The retainer was sent him on Jan. 1, not because he had been nominated Speaker, but because I had then just entered upon my office, and been furnished with the means to pay him. My object in retaining him was expressed in the following letter:

State of New-York,
Office of the Attorney-General,
Albany, Jan. 1, 1872.

Hon. Henry Smith, Albany, N. Y.:

Dear Sir: I am requested by certain stockholders of the Erie Railway Company to bring an action to remove certain officers of that corporation, and to hold them accountable for their misconduct in office. I am authorized by them to retain assistant counsel. On behalf of Messrs. Bischoffscheim & Goldsmith, of London, acting through their agent, Gen. Sickles, I hereby desire to retain your services in regard to the matters above mentioned, and I hereby inclose a retaining fee of $1,500.

This retainer is not by me individually or by the people of the State, but the firm named and those who act with them are to be looked to for compensation. It may be that the persons named may find it necessary to apply for legislative relief. Of course, they will not consult you upon any such matters, or desire any kind of advice or co-operation from you in regard thereto. And even as regards matters connected with action in the Courts, I shall try to call upon you as little as possible during the continuance of your legislative duties. But your familiarity with the legal proceedings in relation to the Erie Railway make us desirous of securing thus early your services for future use in the Courts. Very truly yours.
FRANCIS C. BARLOW,
Attorney-General.

It is true that such a letter might have been written, although the object was to influence Mr. Smith's legislative action. I can only say that it was written with precisely the objects and intention expressed in it, and was acted upon by both sides accordingly. Mr. Smith never was present at any of our conferences, even upon the purely legal questions. Both myself and those acting with me, so far as I know, purposely abstained from consulting with him upon pending legislation, though of course such matters were, unavoidably, sometimes spoken of in his presence at conferences and caucuses of the members. But nothing in the nature of discussions between attorney and client took place on the subject.

Mr. Smith had peculiar qualifications for the legal service which I wanted. I considered that I was not bound to lose his ability and experience in these matters and to leave him to be retained by the other side, should they choose to do so, merely because legislation affecting these parties might come before the body of which he was a member. As well might any client refuse to retain his accustomed counsel, or an attorney of peculiar fitness, because they had been elected to a Legislature which might have to deal with other interests of the client. Or as well might a corporation refuse to continue me as their counsel upon my election as Attorney-General because I have certain powers over incorporated companies.

Mr. Smith's position and views upon the Classification act (the only legislation contemplated at the time of his employment) had long been known, and no retainer was needed to influence him on that side. His own pecuniary interests after this retainer would lead him to oppose the repeal of the Classification act. If the directors were removed by the passage of our bill, the litigation would cease. If the bill were defeated the fight would proceed in the Courts, and Mr. Smith would receive further fees. He was retained for a legal service. As the litigation did not proceed he did not ask or receive a further fee. Had he been retained for legislative services he would have expected further compensation. I consider that the public interests required the services of Mr. Smith in the contemplated suits. I did not propose to sacrifice those interests because some persons might suppose that my retainer was an attempt to bribe a legislator. I knew what my motives and object were, and that this retainer could not influence Mr. Smith in a matter as to which his views were so well known,

Yours, &c., FRANCIS C. BARLOW.
NEW-YORK, Oct. 14, 1872.

The following letter from Mr. SOUTHMAYD fully bears out the statement above made, and brings out in strong relief the nice sense of honor which actuated Gen. BARLOW in his connection with the Erie suit:

Office of Evarts, Southmayd & Choate,
No. 52 Wall-street,
New-York, Oct. 14, 1872.

Hon. Francis C. Barlow:

Dear Sir: I have your note of this date asking from me a written statement upon certain points relating to your action as Attorney General in the controversy between the shareholders of the Erie Railway Company and the late managers of that corporation.

When, in December last, I, on behalf of the English stockholders represented by Heath and Raphael, made application to you as Attorney-General to institute proceedings against the Gould and Fisk management, and you acceded to the request, I stated to you that manifestly it was intrinsically just, in view of the almost nominal amount of the salary attached to your office, and the great amount of labor the contemplated proceedings would impose upon you, that you should receive compensation for your professional services in the matter from the stockholders in whose behalf they were to be undertaken, and who expected to reap the benefits of them; that I had not examined the question whether under the laws regulating your office you could with propriety receive professional compensation in such a case from the parties in interest, but that if it could be done properly my clients would not only be willing, but would greatly prefer, to pay you fees for your services. To this you responded that you thought some of your predecessors had been in the habit of receiving fees in such cases under a statute which was claimed to authorize it, but that although you had not thoroughly examined the question, your impression was that you could not with propriety receive any such fees—that you would look into the matter further and let me know your conclusion. A few days afterward you informed me that, upon further examination, you had decided that it would not be proper for you to receive any compensation from the private parties in interest, and should of course decline to receive anything from my clients. In consequence of this decision on your part no compensation of any sort, direct or indirect, has been paid to you by or on behalf of my clients. Your very valuable and effective services have gone entirely uncompensated, very much to their and my regret, though of course I should have been as unwilling to pay as you to receive anything which could not be paid with entire propriety. Whatever moneys have been paid to you on behalf of my clients in the course of the affair have been paid merely for disbursements by you to other counsel, and have been so applied.

I also recollect very well the circumstances under which Hon. Henry Smith, late Speaker of the Assembly, was retained as one of the counsel in this affair.

Upon full consideration as to the remedy to be adopted, it was decided that a suit should be brought in Albany County, by you as Attorney-General, against Gould and Fisk, seeking relief on behalf of the shareholders, embracing, among other things, the ousting them from their offices on the ground of fraud and breach of trust; and as it was necessary that local counsel should be employed in the conduct of such litigation, necessarily a very heavy and complicated one, it was, after consultation, decided that the Albany counsel so to be employed should be Messrs. Lyman Tremain, Matthew Hale and Henry Smith. At this time, although it was known that Mr. Smith was to be a member of the Assembly, I do not think the idea of his being elected Speaker was considered—certainly his retainer was not decided upon with reference to any services expected to be obtained from him in his legislative capacity; but it was thought best to retain him in the litigations proposed to be conducted in the Supreme Court in Albany County, not only because his prominent position at the Bar there, and his unquestionable ability, naturally suggested such an employment, but because he had previously conducted the Susquehanna litigations against the same parties with marked ability and success; and as it was understood that that controversy then was or was about to be closed by a compromise, we thought that the Fisk and Gould party would at least attempt to secure Mr. Smith's services on their side, if we did not secure him before striking the first blow at them.

These reasons only, and not any idea of obtaining any aid from Mr. Smith in any way in his legislative capacity, were the causes of his being retained.

When careful consultations were held upon the details of the projected suit in the Supreme Court, it was found that certain legal embarrassments to its effectiveness existed, which it would be desirable to get rid of by some legislation, and to this end a bill was introduced in the Legislature correcting the evils existing, which was commonly called the Attorney-General's bill.

This encountered opposition, and was delayed in its progress greatly beyond our expectations. As the bill would very materially affect the shape of the suit, it was thought best to delay the commencement of the suit until the bill should be either passed or rejected.

The result of the whole affair, as is well known, was that the repeal of the Classification act and the voluntary retirement of the Erie managers under the movement conducted by Gen. Sickles, made a summary end of the whole controversy between the shareholders and the managers, of whom they were complaining in a manner wholly unexpected, and thus rendered unnecessary the suit which had been determined upon, and in which Mr. Smith and others had been retained.

Yours very truly,
CHS. F. SOUTHMAYD.

Directions to Registering Officers.

The universal blunders made by the registering officers on the first day of registration show the necessity of some brief directions to them. The manual issued by the Police is too diffuse. We have procured the following from competent sources:

1. No person can be registered unless he is personally present.

2. Every applicant for registration must be sworn and questioned before his name can be placed on the register. There is, to say the least, great doubt whether any person not so sworn can vote, even though he is registered. At any rate the inspectors who fail to swear every applicant render themselves liable to punishment. They must question the applicant sufficiently to satisfy themselves that he has a right to vote, but need not ask any specific set of questions.

3. The registers must be kept by street numbers, the names of all persons residing in the same house being placed together, and the numbers being consecutive on the first day of registration. This was rarely done, and many of the books will have to be written over. The Police Commissioners are greatly at fault in this respect, for the blank-books they furnished to the inspectors did not facilitate their operations. The books furnished by Mr. Davenport to the Supervisors were, on the contrary, models, and much facilitated the performance of their duties. The Police Commissioners ought to provide new books. If this is not done the Inspectors should rewrite the names on other pages of the same books.

4. No person who has once registered and changes his residence can again register unless he brings a certificate that his name has been struck off in the district of his former place of residence. Before giving a certificate of removal, or before receiving one, the inspectors are to be satisfied of his identity, and if in doubt, may cause the proper inquiries to be made at his house.

5. Three of the inspectors must concur in every act. If they are equally divided, it is equivalent to a refusal to do the act.

6. The registers must be written up as they go along. Every name must be placed in each of the four books while the applicant is present, and the proper entries must be made in each column; a "ditto" will not answer, but each entry must be independent of the preceding one. Some of the inspectors make the mistake of making an entry in the column headed, "Voted November," supposing that it refers to last November. It is intended to be filled on election day, Nov. 5.

7. No person can register who has not resided four months in the county and a year in the State. Having so resided, he may by usage, if not by law, register so as to vote for all officers, except those who are to be elected from a district in some portion of which he will not, on Nov. 5, have resided thirty days. If any person is registered with a right to vote for some but not all officers, that fact should be noted.

8. Any voter in the City may challenge the right of any person to register or vote, and each political party has a right to keep a challenger at each place of registry.

9. No liquor can be allowed in any place of registry.

10. As to naturalized citizens, the law seems, in some cases, to have been misunderstood, though the Police Manual seems to state it clearly. If a person claims to have been himself naturalized, he must produce his papers, if that is reasonably possible. If he has lost it, that is of course a good excuse, but if he has left it at home or cannot swear that it is not at home, he should be required to produce it or look for it. If he has lost his paper, there is in general no justification for requiring him to procure a duplicate from the Courts, though in suspicious cases, where the naturalization is alleged to have taken place in this City, that course may be pursued. If the paper, though not lost, is out of the City, so that it cannot be readily procured, the evidence may be taken. Even when a paper is presented, three of the inspectors are to be satisfied that the person presenting it is the person named in it, and that he appeared personally in Court to procure it. Where no paper is produced, the applicant should be able to state the place and approximate the date—at least the year—of naturalization. The Court should also be inquired about, though in this City it will very frequently not be known. The date of arrival in this country, by showing that it was less than five years before the paper was alleged to have been obtained, will often prove a check upon fraud. The fraudulent naturalization papers of 1868 are still in circulation. Fifteen papers dated on a single day in that year were presented in one district on the first day of registration. The use of fraudulent papers is a crime, both under State and United States law, and persons presenting them should be arrested.

There is no authority of law for registering unnaturalized soldiers simply on presentation of their discharge papers. They must be actually naturalized by a Court. If a person claims to be a citizen because he came here under age, and his father was naturalized, he will rarely be able to produce his father's papers, though they should be inquired after. In the absence of such papers, the applicant should be examined as to whether he ever saw them, whether his father voted, and generally to show that the father was in fact naturalized while the son was a minor.

11. No inspector can, either during registry or afterward, let his copy of the register go out of his possession without committing an offense.

11. Every inspector is authorized by inquiry, on other than days of registration, from house to house within his election district to ascertain that persons claiming to reside there do so reside in fact, and are voters.

13. Before adjourning on each day of registration the inspectors must, besides the four books kept during the day, prepare and certify two other copies of the register, one of which is to be hung up in the place of registration. On each day at the close of registration a line is to be drawn under the last name registered, so that no additions can be surreptitiously made.

AMUSEMENTS.

ITALIAN OPERA—MISS KELLOGG IN "IL TROVATORE."

It is a matter of no little remark that a New-York season of Italian opera should reach its seventh night before the management should tender a representation of "Il Trovatore." That work, however, familiarity with which has well nigh bred contempt, was given last evening at the Academy, and brought with it some elements of astonishment. Nothing is more productive of excitement than the unexpected. It certainly was not unlooked for that Miss Kellogg should present an agreeable and painstaking picture of Leonora—although we may say at once that the spirit and histrionic excellence of the lady's performance, being far in advance of what she has hitherto given us in the character, was the theme, last night, of general admiration. But few, it must be admitted, believed that the Manrico of the occasion was likely to prove other than a disappointment. Signor Abrugnedo, it was commonly whispered, may be a very fine tenor, but so far, undeniably, "it hath not appeared." Whether due to the sudden cold, to the undisciplined condition of his organ for lack of practice, or to some other less obvious cause, the gentleman's efforts have hitherto failed to come up to popular expectation. But, from the very opening bars of his music last night, Signor Abrugnedo commanded the warm approval of his audience. The applause, in fact, was so enthusiastic on the singing of his first passage that he was summoned to appear prematurely to receive the public congratulations; and, partly inspired by this, no doubt, and perhaps by feeling greater confidence in his voice, the tenor acquitted himself so well in subsequent efforts as quite to astonish his hearers, if not altogether to reverse a verdict on his powers, which heretofore could not honestly be called favorable. Unfortunately, Signor Abrugnedo's voice wearied perceptibly as he went on; and while, striving as he manifestly was, to please, his efforts were cordially responded to by the house, his throat was not in condition to give that vociferative effect to "Di Quella Pira" to which our opera-goers have become accustomed, and the absence of which they find unsatisfactory. We think it but kind and right to say that Signor Abrugnedo is, and, since his arrival, has been, under medical treatment, and that a really just opinion of his powers is scarcely to be reached until he is relieved from his present disabilities.

Of Miss Kellogg's Leonora it is simple justice to affirm, to begin with, that it bears marks of study, aspiration and ripened intellectual feeling. She always sang the music as one sings who has a fine voice by nature and has become a fine vocalist by art; but she sings it now as one who, by expanded imagination and a widened range of sympathy, has gained a higher level of lyric competency. It is greatly to Miss Kellogg's credit that she has never been satisfied, lavishly as it has been extolled, with her own work as it is or has been; she has always toiled and elaborated to make it better. Keeping in view a lofty ideal, she has labored steadily to come up to it; and the applause she has received—applause, be it remembered, very remarkable as bestowed on an American girl competing with Italian artists of the first rank in their own field, and especially when we recollect that twenty years ago not one person in ten thousand believed that any American woman could ever make a success in Italian opera at all—has never intoxicated her or made her falter in effort or swerve one jot from the path she had marked out for herself. Miss Kellogg was cheered to the echo last night, and even the most critical and exacting of her auditors owned that she had surpassed herself in Leonora and amply sustained her high reputation as a thoroughly progressive singer and lyric actress. The rich and sympathetic contralto of Senora Sanz lent fresh interest last night to the unpleasant part of Azucena, and materially assisted the good fortune of the entertainment. The lady decidedly improved her position with the public, was listened to with close attention and much applauded. Signor Moriami was the Count di Luna, and, if he did not efface the memory of other representatives, he fortified the impression gained by his own previous essays, of a claim to be considered an honest, ambitious and praiseworthy artist. Ferrando fell to the lot of Signor Coulon, who did much better with the part than any one heard at the Academy within our recollection. Mr. Maretzek had his instruments and voices well under control last night, and contrived in most instances to make them preserve a satisfactory unanimity. Probably the people will get tired of "Il Trovatore" in time; but it is not unreasonable to admit that a performance in which there is so much of good and so little of bad as that of this occasion is unlikely to hasten the period of popular aversion. On Wednesday "Faust" is to be sung, when Mme. Lucca will repeat her capital impersonation of the heroine; while on Friday Mme. Lucca will again sing Zerlina in "Fra Diavolo."

OPERA BOUFFE AT THE OLYMPIC.

The season of opera bouffe at the Olympic Theatre was commenced last evening. It opened most auspiciously. The house, which has been refreshed and redecorated during the recess, was crowded to overflowing by a brilliant audience, and the progress of the performance was cheered by applause indicative of the unmistakably pleasant impression produced by the company gathered under Mlle. Aimée's banner. Of the entertainment, it is not necessary to write at length. "La Périchole" was the opera, and Mlle. Aimée's personation of the street songstress is as familiar to the frequenter of places of amusement as are the melodious tunes of the score itself. We should not like to say that the lady's singing was last night irreproachable in point of intonation, but its defects, we believe, were attributable to excessive fatigue consequent upon rehearsals following a wearisome sea voyage. Nothing could be better than her acting; her picture of La Périchole is a remarkable one of its kind, and there is no probability that even Mlle. Schneider's efforts will cause it to be forgotten. With Mlle. Aimée, whose reappearance was attended by a demonstration of welcome most flattering and well-nigh interminable, M. Juteau, a new tenor, was listened to. M. Juteau is young, his voice is no more mature than his physique, and he is an earnest, vivacious and skilled comedian. M. Juteau distinguished himself in the duet preceding the marriage episode, in act the first; in the song "Les Femmes;" and, in fact, at all the remembered stages of the piece: he is a most acceptable performer. The remaining rôles in "La Perichole" were filled by M. Duchesne, who needs neither introduction nor recommendation, and by MM. Julien, Salvator, Mme. Juteau and Mlles. Grenet and Vandame. The opera has been very neatly set. The recital will be repeated this evening and to-morrow, and will doubtless attract and delight a large audience on such occasion.

To excel in improvement is the leading element of this country, and no other article of labor-saving machinery has equaled in this respect the sewing-machine in rapid strides of improvement. Among them the New Wilson Under-Feed Machine may be counted the leading one in this connection. Mr. W. G. Wilson, its inventor, and President of the Company that manufactures it, makes its improvement his constant study. Everything has been added to it that constant experimenting and science could suggest, and it is offered to the public to-day without an equal for family use. Light, rapid, beautiful, durable and perfect, the Wilson holds the leading place among the best sewing-machines in use. Go and see it. Sales-room at No. 707 Broadway, New-York, and in all other cities in the United States. The Company want agents in country towns.—Advertisement.

AT A MEETING OF THE BOARD of Directors of the United States Life Insurance Company, held at the office of the Company this day, the President announced the death of Mr. JAMES SUYDAM, whereupon Mr. Thomas C. Doremus offered the following preamble and resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Another member of our Board, Mr. JAMES SUYDAM, has been removed from our midst by the hands of death;

Resolved, That the members of the Board, through the President and Secretary, tender their sincere sympathies to the family of the deceased, with the assurance that the death of our late associate fills us with sorrow. He was one of the original founders of the Company, and the first subscriber to its articles of incorporation, and since then has ever devoted much time and effort to promoting the interests of the Company. In his death and removal from our midst we shall miss his sound judgment and welcome counsel as our co-worker, and lose a friend as faithful as he was esteemed and respected, and who under all circumstances exhibited the most attractive traits of a Christian gentleman.

By order of the Board of Directors.

REMINISCENCES OF AN OLD MAN.
After A. B. DURAND, N. A.
A MAGNIFICENT NEW CHROMO
BY
L. PRANG & CO.

Mr. Durand is the oldest of our American artists, and one of the most poetical withal. This latter quality is shown to a remarkable degree in the picture under consideration, which is one of his earlier productions. A grove of trees on the left, a stream gliding through it, a cow-pasture, a farm-house on the right, the village with its church-spire, and finally, a range of blue hills in the distance. These are the elements that make up the scene upon which the artist unfolds the whole drama of life. Children are playing on the meadows, the boys with ball and bat, the girls swinging in the trees, lovers are wooing in the shady grove, the farmers are busy reaping and garnering their harvest, and under the shadows of a mighty oak sits an old man with silvery locks, contemplating the spectacle before him, which is well fitted, indeed, to call up the reminiscences of a lifetime.

Size, 32¼x21¼, (the largest so far published by us.)
PRICE PER COPY, $25.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

At the Exchange, yesterday, (Monday, Oct. 14,) Joseph McGuire, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of James H. Greensward, Esq., referee, sold a three-story high stoop frame house and lot, lot 16.3 by 100.9, situate on the north side of One Hundred and Fifth-street, 233.9 feet west of Second avenue, for $4,500, the purchaser being J. H. V. Arnold, the plaintiff in the legal action. The property was sold cheap. The only other auction noticed for the day was adjourned, as follows: Legal sale by B.P.Fairchild of one lot, with three-story brick carpenter-shop in front thereof and frame house in rear, located on the north side of West Twenty-eighth-street, 200.7 feet east of Seventh-avenue, adjourned to to-morrow, (Wednesday.) No further business was transacted.

At Rye, Westchester County, on Saturday, Oct. 12, E. H. Ludlow & Co., by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of Alfred T. Ackert, Esq., referee, disposed of a three-story frame house and lot of ground containing about one and a half acres of land, situated on Grace Church-street near the depot, for $5,800. Purchaser, John O. Higgins. This amount added to the total values of suburban real estate sold last week makes the figures stand $152,237, instead of $146,437, as noted yesterday.

For today, at the Exchange, the sales announced are numerous, the most important of which is the auction in charge of Muller, Wilkins & Co., at which the valuable business property No. 259 Canal-street, the lease of the premises known as No. 22 Henry-street, and lots on One Hundred and Twelfth and One Hundred and Thirteenth streets, near Third-avenue, will be offered. The remaining sales are all of a legal character, full particulars concerning which were given yesterday. Many of them are, however, of importance. Today, also, should the weather prove pleasant, at Paterson, N. J., 500 desirable lots will be offered for sale by A. D. Mellick, Jr., & Bro., and at Bayside, Long Island, 400 lots by Jere. Johnson, Jr., the latter sale being made for the purpose of closing out the interest in the Mickle estate. Special train for first-named auction from foot of Chambers or Twenty-third streets, via ferry, at 11 o'clock, and for second named from foot of James-slip or Thirty-fourth-street, via ferry, at same hour. Attention is also called to the executors' sale of property at Liberty Corner, N. J., which takes place today on the ground at noon.

At private sale, E. G. Locke, No. 139 Eighth-street, reports having recently disposed of the four-story high-stoop brown-stone house and lot, No. 4 West Twenty-seventh-street, between Broadway and Sixth-avenue, for $45,000; also a brick stable and lot on the south side of West Thirty-second-street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, for $15,000.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A STATED TERM OF THE DIStrict Court of the United States of America for the Eastern District of New-York, held at the United States Court-rooms, in the City of Brooklyn, on the 19th day of July, in the year of our Lord 1872. Present—Hon. Charles L. Benedict, District Judge.—In the matter of the petition of THE NORWICH AND NEW-YORK TRANSPORTATION COMPANY.—On reading and filing the petition of the Norwich and New-York Transportation Company, the owners and claimants of the steam-boat City of Norwich, her engine, tackle, apparel and furniture, setting forth, among other things, that by reason of the facts and circumstances stated in said petition, and by reason of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the suit against them therein mentioned, and the rules adopted by the said Supreme Court to govern cases of like character, they are entitled to and claim the benefit of limitation of liability, provided for in the third and fourth sections of the act entitled "an act to limit the liability of ship-owners and for other purposes," passed March 3, 1851, and praying that this Court will cause an appraisement to be had by one of the Commissioners of this Court of the amount of value of the interest of the said petitioners as owners respectively in such steam-boat or vessel and her freight pending for the voyage upon which she was employed and for which the said petitioners are liable, and that, upon the coming in of the report of the said Commissioner, an order may be made for the payment of such valuation into Court, or for the giving of a stipulation by the said petitioners with sureties for the payment thereof into Court whenever the same shall be ordered, and that upon the payment of such valuation into Court, or upon the filing of such stipulation, that the stipulation heretofore given by the said petitioners be canceled, and the said petitioners and their sureties thereon be discharged from all liability thereunder, and that this Court will issue a monition against all persons and parties claiming damages for any loss, destruction, damage or injury arising out of the said collision, fire and loss, citing them to appear before this Court and make due pooof of their respective claims, at or before a certain time to be named in said writ, not less than three months from the issuing of the same, and that public notice of such monition be given as in other cases, and such further notice as this Court in its discretion may direct, and that this Court will make an order restraining the further prosecution of all and any suit or suits against the said steam-boat or against the said petitioners as the owners of the said steam-boat in respect to any such claim or claims for damages occasioned by the collision, fire and loss in the said petition mentioned, and restraining all further proceedings, except as to such appraisement, until the further order of this Court, and for such further and other order of relief as to this Court may seem proper and right, and as this Court may think proper to grant;

Now, on motion of J. W. C. Leveridge, of counsel for said petitioners, it is ordered, that in conformity with the said act of Congress, the said decision of the said Supreme Court and the rules of the said Supreme Court made in pursuance thereof, all persons and parties interested show cause before this Court at the Court-rooms thereof, at No. 189 Montague-street, in the City of Brooklyn and State of New-York, on the third Wednesday of November, 1872, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, why an appraisement should not be made of the amount of the value of the interest of the said petitioners as owners respectively in said steam-boat City of Norwich and her freight pending for the said voyage upon which she was employed, and why the petitioners should not have such other, further or different relief or order in the premises as may seem meet and proper, and in the meantime, and until otherwise ordered by this Court, the further prosecution of all or any suits against the said petitioners as owners of said steam-boat for or on account of any of the matters in the petition mentioned and referred to are hereby restrained and stayed.

And on like motion it is further ordered that the Clerk of this Court give notice of this order to all persons interested, by publishing a copy thereof in the Brooklyn Daily Union, the New-York Daily Times and in the Norwich Bulletin, for fourteen days prior to the return of such order, by mailing copies thereof to all parties interested named in said petition and schedules annexed, or whose names may hereafter be furnished to him, addressed to them at their respective places of business or residences, so far as he may ascertain the same, and as to parties whose places of business or residence may not be ascertained, the same to be directed to them at the City of New-York, and by serving, or causing to be served, a copy of the order on the Proctors or Attorneys of all parties named in the petition as having commenced legal proceedings for the enforcement of their claims.
CHARLES L. BENEDICT.
J. W. C. LEVERIDGE, Pr. for Petitioners.
EASTERN DISTICT OF NEW-YORK, ss.
Notice is hereby given to all persons interested that the above is a true copy of an order filed and entered in the above entitled matter in the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of New-York, on the 19th day of July, 1872.
SAMUEL T. JONES, Clerk.
Dated BROOKLYN, Sept. 30, 1872.

IN THE ORPHANS' COURT OF Northampton County, Pennsylvania.—Estate of JACOB REESE, deceased.—Aug. 19, 1872.—Petition presented, read and filed praying for an order of sale. Same day the Court grant a rule on all the heirs of said Jacob Reese, deceased, to be and appear on WEDNESDAY, the 2d day of October next, at 10 o'clock A. M., before the said Orphans' Court, to show cause, if any they have, why the real estate of said Jacob Reese, deceased, shall not be sold.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN SECOND MORTGAGE BONDHOLDERS AND THE PRESIDENT NEW-YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 30, 1872.

To the President of the New-York Stock Exchange:

DEAR SIR: Inclosed herewith you will find an advertisement taken from the DAILY TIMES, referring to a communication from the President of the "Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railway Company" of Illinois, giving notice, as "required by law," that the Second Mortgage Bonds, issued by the Company, would not, after the 1st September next, be exchanged for the first preferred shares of the Company, as was agreed in the articles of consolidation with the Mississippi and Wabash Railroad Company of Dec. 14, 1865.

I was not aware, gentlemen, that your by-laws demanded the notice given you, or that such a notice would in any wise impair contracts made in good faith between railroad corporations; and I would therefore most respectfully protest against your honorable body taking action under and by virtue of the resolution passed by the Board of Directors of the Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railroad Company, repudiating the rights of the Second Mortgage bondholders of the Company, as presented to you by the President of the Company for your notice and action. The bonds referred to are not only a second mortgage upon the Western Division, but cover the entire franchise of the Company, and all its valuable rolling stock, real estate, machine shops, machinery elevators and depot building, subject only to the first mortgages on the Eastern and Western Division, being only $15,000 per mile upon a completed road of 230 miles, which cost $50,000 per mile to construct and equip, and is convertible into a consolidated first mortgage bond, executed on the 2d of May, 1870, to retire all the first and second mortgages, and pay off the floating debt and provide for additional equipment, and which were unanimously placed on your Board list this Spring, and are now marketable at your Board.

The holders of the second mortgage bonds will, nevertheless, exchange their bonds for the first preferred shares of the Company, which were authorized to be issued agreeable to act of consolidation by the Legislature of Illinois, February 9, 1869, when it shall be for their interest to do so.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
At 90 and Accrued Interest.

Issue $20,000 to the mile, in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000. This enterprise is undertaken with subscriptions to the Capital Stock of over $2,000,000. Sixteen miles of the Road are finished and in operation. 44 miles in addition fully graded, and a total length of 55 miles of track will be laid this season, while the whole Road, of about 150 miles, with the exception of 5 miles of easy work, is entered upon and contracted to be finished by responsible and wealthy parties within the ensuing year.

The Road will extend from the City of Oswego to Lewiston, on the Niagara River, with branches to Suspension Bridge and Buffalo, connecting at its Western terminus with the Great Western, the Canada Southern, and the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroads, and at Oswego with the New-York Midland, and by way of the Midland with the proposed Boston, Rome and Oswego Railroad, which, when built, will thus provide a route from Chicago to Boston, 70 miles shorter than by any existing or contemplated line; connecting also at Oswego with the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railroad, and thence by the Vermont Central it completes connection with the entire railroad system of Northern New-England; while connections at Oswego with the Syracuse and Oswego Railroad, secures access to the coal fields of Pennsylvania.

With these connections a large through business is assured. Running through populous towns and villages, and a rich agricultural district, its local business alone will doubtless take care of the interest on the First Mortgage Bonds. The assessed value of the farm property of the six counties through which the road passes is $194,319,052
Annual production is 31.492,340

We confidently commend the above Loan as one of the most attractive and reliable ever offered. For sale by

TAMMANY'S TURMOIL.

A Characteristic Row Last Night at the Wigwam.

What Mr. John Kelly Can Do in the Way of Nominations—The Judiciary Ticket Partially "Fixed"—City Judge Bedford Renominated by Acclamation.

The Tammany Judiciary Convention reassembled yesterday afternoon at the Hall in Fourteenth street, Augustus Schell presiding. The meeting was called for 3 P. M., but it was nearly 4 o'clock before proceedings commenced, and, the hall being cold and draughty, the delegates grew restive under the delay and stamped impatiently for the Chairman to begin. Thus called on, Mr. Schell at last took his seat, rapped the Convention to order, and asked its pleasure. It appeared to have none, everybody remaining silent. Finally Mr. Kelly rose and moved that the roll be called and that the delegates answer to their names. At the last meeting, he added, there were many persons present who were not members of the Convention.

The roll being called, Mr. Kelly moved that where substitutes were present their names be handed, in writing, to the Chairman.

Mr. Ackert moved that all persons not provided with credentials as delegates retire to the galleries.

This motion met with much noisy opposition, but, a vote being taken, the Chairman declared it carried. Some confusion followed on this attempt being made to eliminate the unauthorized. Quiet being restored, Mr. Ackert moved that delegates present have power to cast the vote of the full delegation, without regard to absentees.

A warm discussion ensued, and the Convention began to grow excited. The motion was finally withdrawn, and some one proposed that a recess of five minutes be taken. Cries of "No, no! Sit down!" greeted this proposition. Mr. McClellan moved that each delegation vote as a body, the Chairman of it giving the vote of the majority. Another excited discussion followed, Mr. Kelly strenuously opposing the motion. A rising vote was taken, and it was declared lost. The names of substitutes in each delegation were then read, and further debate ensued as to their standing. It was decided in the end that no one could act as a substitute unless authorized to do so by a majority of the delegation he belonged to.

Mr. Kelly handed in the report of the Judiciary Conference Committee. It stated that they had consulted with outside organizations on the matters referred to them for consideration; that the committee of Liberal Republicans requested the name of Hon. James J. Fithian to be placed upon the ticket as candidate for Justice of the Superior Court, and the Committee of the National Democracy presented the name of Hon. James M. Smith for the office of District-Attorney. The Committee reported that as the result of numerous conferences and discussions they found the general expression of opinion to be in favor of Hon. William H. Leonard for Justice of the Supreme Court, Hon. James C. Spencer, for Justice of the Superior Court, and Hon. Gunning S. Bedford for City Judge; but they added that the names of Mr. Jerome Buck and Hon. Josiah Sutherland received support for that office. The names of Samuel B. Garvin, James M. Smith and Wheeler H. Peckham were presented to, and received support in the Committee for the office of District-Attorney.

On motion the report was adopted unanimously.

The Convention then went into the work of nomination, though several delegates thought that by adopting the report the Convention had nominated all the gentlemen mentioned in it. This error required considerable explanation from Mr. Kelly to correct, and the questionings and replies had the effect still further to excite the Convention.

A motion was then made to take the first two names mentioned in the report and nominate by acclamation. The motion was carried amid further confusion, and William H. Leonard was unanimously nominated for Judge of the Supreme Court, and James C. Spencer for Judge of the Superior Court.

Mr. McClellan moved that the Convention nominate a City Judge by acclamation, and proposed the name of Gunning S. Bedford.

Confusion greater than any which had preceded it followed this. The Chairman continued to rap his desk in a vain attempt to restore quiet. Somebody moved that a recess of fifteen minutes be taken. Mr. Schell left the chair and the delegates continued their noisy debates. Quiet at length being restored, the Convention came to order, and the roll being called again, it was ascertained who had and had not the right to vote.

The name of Mr. Jerome Buck was proposed for City Judge.

Mr. Kelly briefly supported the claims of Judge Bedford for the position, and moved that he be nominated.

Mr. Hartman seconded the motion. Other delegates opposed, and the debate was silenced by loud cries that the roll be called.

Judge Scott, gaining a hearing, nominated Richard M. Henry, and moved that his name be added to the report of the Conference Committee as being among the candidates who had been urged upon them. Mr. Clark explaining that the name had been omitted by mistake, the motion was adopted. The roll was then called, and the number of votes given by each delegation to the three nominees was announced by its Chairman. This occupied some time, and excited intense interest. The Eighteenth District had been reached, the total of votes being about equally divided between Judge Bedford and Mr. Jerome Buck, when the latter came forward and, amid vociferous cheering from the Bedford faction, withdrew his name as a candidate, and moved that Judge Bedford be nominated by acclamation.

The motion was carried, and the nomination made. The Convention, now thoroughly excited, was prepared to nominate a District-Attorney, when Mr. Kelly rose, and moved an adjournment to Friday next.

A dozen delegates were instantly on their feet; shouts of "No! No! Sit down! Question, question!" coupled with cheers for Samuel B. Garvin, resounded on all sides. The Chairman plied his gavel, and at last Mr. Kelly, who had remained standing through the turmoil, made his voice heard. He urged that the motion be adopted. If Mr. Garvin were nominated, it would be little gain to him, for he would certainly be defeated. [Cries of "No! No!"] He referred in severe terms to the want of delicacy shown by Mr. Garvin, who was then on the floor seeking a renomination. If his name were added to the ticket, it would insure its certain defeat. He was connected with men now on trial for their crimes, and it was at the beck of these men that he had resigned his place on the Bench, because he could be a more useful tool in their hands as District-Attorney. The Convention was not in the mood to act dispassionately; but if this thing were going to be done to-night, the whole story should be told. [Sensation.] Mr. Kelly concluded by imploring the Convention to adjourn quietly, and to consider the question calmly.

By this time nearly every delegate had risen from his seat, listening intently. Some one proposed three cheers for Mr. Garvin, but there was no response. Mr. McClellan came to the defense, and in an excited speech of considerable length, vindicated Mr. Garvin from the charges made against him, and concluded by moving as an amendment to Mr. Kelly's motion that the Convention at once proceed to the nomination.

From this moment till the Convention adjourned, there was nothing but confusion, motions and counter-motions, points of order, shouting and noise. Mr. Clark tried to quiet the disturbance in Mr. Kelly's favor, and Mr. Fellows on the side of Judge Garvin, till seeing nothing more could be done, the Chairman declared the motion to adjourn carried, and the Convention broke up.

The County Convention of the National Democracy was held last evening at No. 39 Union-square. Mr. John McCool presided. Mr. Geo. A. Barney reported that the Conference Committee recommended that in view of the present position of political parties it was desirable that the Convention refrain from making any nomination for Mayor till Friday evening. By that time it was expected that their chances of success would be much improved. The report of the Committee was adopted. On motion it was agreed that the Committee on Judiciary should press on Tammany the nomination of Hon. James M. Smith for District-Attorney. The Convention then adjourned.

To-night the Judiciary Convention meets, and will nominate candidates for the various offices in the Judiciary to be filled at the coming election.

The Murder of Dorian at Jones' Wood.

Considerable excitement was occasioned about a year ago by the stabbing to death of a young man named David Dorian, during the progress of the Scottish games at Jones' Wood. About nine months after the occurrence a youth named John Kiely was arrested, charged with the murder. Yesterday he was brought to trial in the Court of General Sessions. The facts of the case are briefly narrated in the testimony of William Robb, the only witness examined up to the time of adjournment. Mr. Robb testified, in substance, that on Thursday, Sept. 7, 1871, he was present at the Scottish games in Jones' Wood; in the evening he went with David Dorian, and a young man named Frank Raymond, into a booth to have some lager; two girls were tending bar; while standing at the bar the prisoner, Kiely, came in and attempted to take a pie without paying therefor; Caroline Steinbein, one of the waitresses, remonstrated with Kiely, and he called her vile names; Dorian interfered, and struck Kiely; after being struck Kiely left the booth, followed by Dorian; the witness followed immediately, and met Dorian returning, about ten steps therefrom, staggering, and covered with blood; Dorian exclaimed, "I'm stabbed," and died within a few minutes; the witness did not see anything that occurred outside the tent; he did not see any knife in the prisoner's hand. On cross-examination Robb said that he had taken a considerable quantity of lager on the day in question, but was perfectly sober. At the conclusion of Robb's testimony the Court adjourned until this morning at the usual hour.

TWEED AND FIELDS.

Where they are—The Boss Still in Town—Fields Positively Said to have Absconded.

The precise whereabouts of Wm. M. Tweed and Tom Fields has been a question of much interest to the general public for over a week. The most contradictory rumors have been circulated about them, and as fast as it was asserted that both men had absconded to avoid the consequences of their trial, people were found ready and eager to deny the rumor, and persist that the Boss and his Ring partner were still in the City, and had no intention of running away. In the multiplicity of these rumors, it was difficult to ascertain the precise truth regarding the movements of this precious pair. But it now appears that Tweed is in town, and did not actually leave, though it is stated on good authority that he made all necessary preparations for flight to other climes. So far did he go that a house was sold to raise funds, and every preparation was made for departure. He was, however, persuaded at the eleventh hour by his friends to remain, and now insists that he never contemplated flight. The impression is sought to be made that Tweed has no fears of conviction, and that he will brave out the consequences. Those who have seen him state that Tweed no longer possesses that air of coolness which so long distinguished him, and that he is evidently suffering from mental care and trouble, though he pretends to be jolly under the most depressing circumstances.

As regards Fields a totally different story is told. We stated yesterday that he had been seen in Park Row on Saturday, but in the presence of fresher information it seems impossible that those who asserted that they saw him could have been correct, for it is now stated that Fields left this City on Thursday by the steamer Crescent City for Havana. It appears that a few days ago he told his wife that he had made up his mind to leave the City to remain away for an indefinite time, but promised to let her know his hiding-place, which would probably be Havana, as soon as matters had "blown over" a little. She has not seen him since Thursday, and remained at home until Saturday, hoping that he would return, but finding that he did not she sought the advice of friends, to whom Fields' flight came as a surprise. It is alleged by them that Fields has left his family unprovided for, he being insolvent, and head over ears in debt. Be this as it may, it is pretty certain that Fields has gone at last.

Brilliant Display of Aurora Borealis Last Night.

About 6 o'clock last evening a brilliant light was visible in the northern sky, causing many people in this City at first to suppose that a large fire was raging somewhere in Westchester County. This impression was also made upon the passengers over the East River ferries, but in a few moments after the light deepened into a roseate hue, while the field expanded until all of the fleecy clouds that were slowly drifting to the eastward, were bathed in it. Then the true character of the display manifested itself, it being one of the most beautiful auroras ever seen in this latitude.

For fifteen minutes the glowing color enveloped the clouds, and a bright shaft of yellow light shot up suddenly in the centre, sending forth sharp points of vivid white light. The edges of this shaft blended with the rose of the main body in beautifully-marked graduations of color, the movements of the clouds giving an animation to the picture which it otherwise would not have had. While the centre shaft was in its brightest glory the aurora assumed the "curtain" shape, the shading being very perfect and clear in outline. At this juncture the full moon suddenly emerged from behind a bank of clouds when instantly new beauties began to exhibit themselves. The rosy-colored clouds in the north seemed to be floating upon a sea of amber, so clear and transparent that the stars appeared to be imprisoned in it. To the westward the aurora was apparently gathering fresh power, for the little patches of white clouds floating in that direction were one by one suffused with the rose color, to be immediately changed to a saffron and then to a green, only to return at length to the rose, giving them a kaleidoscopic appearance. So soft was the light that when a gust of wind in the upper air dispersed the clouds, the auroral tints seemed to follow them, the fact being that the clouds only changed the aspect of the field as they traversed it.

At a few minutes before 7 the light grew stronger and deeper, until the whole of the north-western horizon was overspread and illumined, the moonlight having a singular effect as the aurora rose and fell. At 8 o'clock the display was apparently at its height, for then all of the changes already described were intensified and enlarged, a few of the old-fashioned spears of light making their appearance every few minutes, only to disappear as if by magic.

Thousands of people were witnesses to this extraordinary display, for at that hour the multitudes of workers were returning homeward by car and ferry-boat. Great interest was manifested in the aurora, and it elicited great admiration and surprise. By 9 o'clock nearly all of the lights had disappeared, and very few who were abroad at that hour for the first time, would imagine that a wonderful prismatic display had just taken place.

Trotting at Fleetwood Park—Hall's Driving Park Show.

There was a fair attendance of spectators at Fleetwood Park yesterday to witness five contests that were on the card. The track was in excellent condition, but the weather was blustering. The first race was a match for $500, mile heats, three in five, for which were entered D. Pfifer's b. m. Topsey, to wagon, and W. E. Week's blk. g. Eight Bells, in harness. The race was won by Week's Eight Bells. Time—2:42¼, 2:45½, 2:46. The second race was a match for $400, mile heats, three in five, in harness, for which were entered Peter Maron's br. h. Bellrounder and John Kane's r. g. John. The former won, and made a score of 2:52, 2:50, 2:49, 2:49.

The next race was a match for $250, mile heats, best three in five. Entries: Gibo's blk. g. Diamond and M. Kane's b. g. Unknown. The latter won, making the following time: 3:06, 2:56¾, 2:58.

The fourth race was a match for $400, mile heats, three in five, and was won by P. Hayden's b. m. Lady Anna, who made time as follows: 2:43½, 2:43½, 2:42.

The last race was a match for $500, mile heats, in harness, and was won by W. Bowen's gr. m. Kate. Time—2:45, 2:42½, 2:49.

Two trots came off at Hall's Driving Park yesterday in the presence of about 200 spectators. The first was an unfinished trot between Lady Fisher, Peter, Decision, Lady Jane, Sorrel Boy, Literature, and Henry, which was postponed from Saturday, four heats having been trotted on that day. The fifth heat was won by Peter. In the sixth heat Peter and Decision ran most of the way and came in first and second, but the heat was given to Lady Fisher. In the seventh heat there was trouble. Peter and Decision ran most of the way as in the preceding heat, and two of the judges, who knew nothing of the trotting rules, wanted to give the heat and race to Peter, while the third judge, Mr. Harney, contended that Lady Fisher was entitled to the heat in accordance with the rules of the National Association. Mr. Harney left the stand. The other two judges declared Peter the winner, when Mr. Hall declared all pools and bets off. The race was for a purse of $100 for horses that have never beaten three minutes, mile heats, best three in five in harness, and the score shows Peter's time: 2:47, 2:46, 2:48½.

On the same day a match for $100, mile heats, best three in five in harness, was trotted between John Phillip's br. g. Eastern Boy and G. Wright's b. g. Tom Bray, and was won by the former. Time, 2:52, 2:50, 2:50.

A Probable Homicide—The Case of Deputy Clerk Dempsey.

Coroner Young was on Sunday evening requested to take the ante-mortem deposition of Lottie Stanton, a woman of abandoned character, who keeps a house of ill-repute at No. 18 West Thirteenth-street, and who is now lying in a critical condition at her residence from injuries alleged to have been received at the hands of Joseph Dempsey, Clerk of the Board of Assistant Aldermen, during a fracas on Thursday night last. The Coroner learned that the unfortunate woman was delirious, and of course unable to make a statement. Dr. Wynkoop, the attending physician, informed Coroner Young that Miss Stanton was in an extremely critical condition, suffering from concussion of the brain and a fracture of the skull, and there was scarcely any hope of her recovery. The only chance of her recovery depended upon the patient being kept quiet and free from all excitement, and Coroner Young, therefore, deemed it wisest to take no official action in the matter.

From the guests of the house present it was learned that on Thursday night last Dempsey and a number of companions entered the house and took possession of the parlors. Personal difficulties ensued between Dempsey and Miss Stanton. Dempsey's party was ordered to leave the house, but instead of complying, they made a most brutal attack upon the women present, and beat them most unmercifully. Dempsey seized an iron piano-stool and struck Miss Stanton a terrible blow on the head with it, felling her senseless to the floor and fracturing her skull. The Police arrested Dempsey, but his companions succeeded in making their escape. Dempsey was locked up in the Mercer-street Police-station, and the next morning taken before Justice Cox, at the Jefferson Market Police Court, where he was committed to prison (where he now is) to await the result of the injuries.

Dempsey, anticipating summary dismissal, has placed his resignation in the hands of a friend, to be presented to the Board at its next meeting.

THE SWEDES FOR GRANT.

Mass-Meeting of the Swedish Independent Grant and Wilson Association.

A mass-meeting, under the direction of the Swedish Independent Grant and Wilson Association was held last evening in the Germania Assembly Rooms, Bowery, Ed. V. Newman in the chair. On the platform were Simon Sternberger, C. Murberg, Nathan J. Newwiller, A. H. Laflin, Lewis J. Phillips, A. J. Patterson, S. P. Guhl, W. W. Northrop, A. Henriques, O. Lelgeorold, O. Bergman and others. A number of ladies occupied the front seats, and others were dispersed through the hall. The hall was tastefully decorated with the Swedish, Norwegian and national flags, and the galleries were hung with scarlet and gold. In the centre of the rear gallery was a blue banner broidered in gold, bearing the device of a golden lyre and laurel branch, and the motto, "Swedish Singing Society." A pamphlet in the Scandinavian language reviewing the history of Gen. Grant and his Administration was handed around.

The singing society opened the proceeding by singing a grand old Norse song, called "Svea," or "Brothers all join together," a weird, thrilling martial chant, such as one would suppose to have been sung by the followers of the old Vikings in their piratical excursions. The Chairman then introduced Hon Wm. Northrop, who said that they had assembled there under peculiar circumstances. It was the first meeting of the Society. They had, he said, inaugurated a movement which would reflect credit on them. President Grant, he said, had, by his judicious Administration, entitled himself to the confidence of the nation. The speaker then referred to the one-term principle, and particularized the various Présidents who had been re-elected. He read a copy of Grant's note to Lee, prior to Appomattox, in proof of his generosity, and reviewed the relations of the North and South, and the clemency extended to the prominent participators in the rebellion. The speaker then gave a history of the so-called Democratic Liberal Party, and pointed out the inconsistency of the clique. Horace Greeley, he said, was politically dead; but he would remind him that there was punishment after death.

The speaker then reviewed the blundering career of old Chappaquack, and asked what would have been the result if Greeley had been elected in 1864 in place of Lincoln. Why, said he, Lincoln called out 160,000 men to maintain the Union, but if Greeley was there, he would, like Pickwick, elevate his coat-tails with his left hand, adjust his glasses and waive an affectionate salutation to our Southern sisters, and have said, "Go in peace." His views were neither creditable to his head nor heart. Greeley, he said, was between two stools. He pretends to be a Republican and a Democrat—he is doing the lion and the ass, but the ears of the ass peep out of the lion's hide. The wages of sin is death, and the wages of Mr. Greeley's sin will be death without redemption.

The speaker then explained how the maintenance of the present Administration affected the naturalized citizen, and demonstrated that under President Grant, and under his Administration alone, were the laws relating to the foreign allegiance of naturalized citizens definitely settled. He proceeded to explain the Fourteenth Amendment, and concluded by calling on the audience to support the re-election of Gen. Grant.

Addresses were delivered by O. Bergman, J. P. Petterson, in the Swedish language, and by Mr. S. P. Grubl in Danish. Resolutions were passed indorsing the present Administration, after which the meeting adjourned.

Eleventh-Avenue Extension—A Question of Boundary.

The Commissioners to examine into and appraise the amount of compensation for damage, and rate of assessment to meet the same, in the case of the opening of Eleventh-avenue, from One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street to Harlem River, met, yesterday, at No. 82 Nassau-street, to hear objections and complaints. Messrs. Emanuel B. Hart and Henry A. Smith were present, but James M. Sweeny was absent. Mr. Richard O'Gorman, Corporation Counsel, appeared on behalf of the Commissioners, and the land-owners mostly were represented by counsel. Mr. Joseph Bondy made objection to the City taking his property without proper compensation, as his deed from the Dyckman estate guaranteed to him the land to the centre of the proposed Eleventh-avenue line, the original land-owners never resigning their right of possession, or dedicating it to public use. Mr. W. A. Wheelock had bought land on the line of the proposed avenue, and contended that if the City took his ground for public use without due compensation, the remainder of the property should not be assessed for the opening up of the thoroughfare. Some little discussion ensued as to the meaning of the word boundary as used in the Corporation Counsel's opinion relative to awards, counsel for property-owners contending that where the original boundary of the land was in the centre of an imaginary avenue, it should not be considered as being bounded by the avenue, and that the original owner should receive proper compensation. The Commissioners desired counsel to file the points of objection with the Corporation Counsel, and adjourned the investigation until Thursday next.

The Dempsey Stabbing.

Mary Anne Dempsey and Mary Dougherty, living in the low tenement-house No. 41 Broome-street, had a quarrel on Sunday evening, in the alley-way adjacent to their residence, which resulted in Mrs. Dougherty receiving stab-wounds of a probably fatal character. Mrs. Dempsey was arrested by Officer Green, of the Thirteenth Precinct. She was arraigned at Jefferson Market, before Justice Snandley, yesterday morning, and committed to await the result of Mrs. Dougherty's injuries, the latter having been taken to Bellevue Hospital for medical treatment. A TIMES reporter saw Mrs. Dempsey in her cell. She had her little infant wrapped in her shawl, trying to keep it as warm as possible. She said: "Mrs. Dougherty was 'noticed' to leave the house and she blamed me for being the cause of it. She had a bad tongue, and met me in the alley-way and called me bad names, saying she would beat the life out of me. She drew a knife and rushed at me. I grabbed the knife; took it from her, and I suppose I struck her with it."

The City Debt—Increase Since Jan. 1.

A Sunday paper having charged that the City debt has been increased $20,000,000 since the 1st of last January, the following figures, obtained from the books in the Controller's office, will show the falsity of the statement. There is an increase of $4,000,000 to Oct. 1, caused by the issue of bonds, making special appropriations for new school buildings, dock improvements, New-York Bridge Company, and new Croton water bonds:

Debt Jan. 1, 1872	$87,238,608
Less amount invested in sinking fund stocks	20,182,322
	$67,056,286
Debt Oct. 1, 1872	93,167,460
Less amount invested in sinking fund stocks	21,805,422
	$71,362,038
Deduct debt on 1st January, 1872	67,056,286
Total increase of debt to Oct. 1	$4,305,752

Illegal Shipment of Fire-Works on the Henry Chauncey.

The examination in the case of Joseph B. Purdy, charged with shipping combustibles, fire-works, &c., on the steamer Henry Chauncey, without marking them, to show their character, was resumed yesterday morning before Commissioner Osborne.

Simon Tilghman, porter for Mr. Purdy, testified that he packed the two cases without Mr. Purdy's knowledge. It was his duty to pack goods, and the shipping clerk's office to mark them. He engaged a cartman at the corner of William-street and Maiden-lane, and did not tell him that the cases contained umbrellas, nor did the cartman ask what they contained.

John Mulligan, the public carman who carried the fireworks, testified that the clerk at the steamer asked him what was in the boxes, saying that he knew Purdy to be a dealer in fire-works; witness replied that there might be umbrellas in them for all he knew, the cases resembling umbrella-cases, and being, as he thought, too light for fire-works; he knew that Mr. Purdy did not deal in umbrellas.

Assistant District-Attorney De Kay moved to commit the prisoner, whose counsel asked for his discharge. Mr. Osborne reserved his decision to consider as to whether fire-works are not included by the statute which forbids the shipment of benzine, coal-oil, oil of vitriol, gunpowder, and other "goods of like character."

The Methodist Preachers and Prof. Tyndall.

At the meeting of the Methodist Preachers yesterday, Dr. Stephen D. Brown presiding, addresses were made by Drs. Decker and Foss, in which the nature of Prof. Tyndall's "test" of the efficacy of prayer was alluded to. The speakers, while respecting the Professor as a scientist, condemned his false ideas on theological matters. Dr. Crawford characterized the Professor as an intruder, and said if he had studied Christianity as much as he did science, he would be ashamed of the views he had put forward treating of theology. Prof. Tyndall, he said, treats on a subject of which he evidently knows nothing, and his "test" was a mockery and a sham. The speakers were heartily applauded.
